SC REFUSES TO STOP CCI PROBE AGAINST FLIPKART, AMAZON

The apex court on Monday rejected the e-commerce majors' plea against the Competition Commission of India's anti-trust probe

'BIG FIRMS MUST VOLUNTEER TO FACE INQUIRY'

The SC said challenging the inquiry is like wanting a notice before the registration of an FIR. "We expect big organisations like Amazon and Flipkart to offer themselves for the inquiry, and you do not want that. You have to submit and inquiry has to be permitted," said the three-member bench headed by Chief Justice N V Ramana

OBC Bill boards Oppn, averts full House washout

BJP issues whip to party MPs to remain present in both Houses to ensure passage

MANISH ANAND @ New Delhi

AFTER weeks of disruption, the Lok Sabha on Monday witnessed brief order when Union minister Virendra Kumar rose to introduce the politically sensitive 127th Constitution Amendment Bill, which seeks to restore the power of the states to prepare their own lists of OBCs.

The Bill is likely to be taken for discussion and passage on Tuesday. The BJP has issued whip to party MPs to remain present in both Houses to ensure its passage. Being a Constitution amendment Bill, it requires order in the House as well as two-thirds of the members present voting in its favour.

For the rest of the day, the Opposition continued vociferous protests while the governemnt pushed three more legislations – The Limited Liability Partnership (Amendment) Bill, 2021, The Deposit Insurance and Credit Guarantee Corporation (Amendment) Bill, 2021, and The Constitution (Scheduled Tribes) Order (Amendment) Bill, 2021.

The Opposition sought to be heard on the Bill concerning the scheduled tribes, with MPs Adhir Ranjan Chowdhury and Manish Tewari (Congress), Sudeep Bandyopadhyay (TMC), T R Baalu (DMK), and Supriya Sule (NCP) seeking the right to speak. They argued that the Bill shouldn't be passed hurriedly in the din and accused the government of carrying out the legislative business even while the House isn't in order.

127TH CONSTITUTION AMENDMENT BILL

- Articles amended – 338B, 342A, 366
- Clauses inserted: Central List means the list prepared & maintained by the Centre for its own purposes
- States, UTs may prepare separate lists for own purposes, different from Central List
- Inserting Clause 26C to state socially and educationally backward classes means such backward classes under Article 342A for the purposes of the Centre, states & UTs
- Central List was unveiled in 1993
- The Constitution (102) Amendment Act, 2018 provided for the Constitutional status to the National Backward Commission, which led to the judicial interpretation that only Centre can prepare the OBC list

State to check kids' health to fight wave 3

K SHIVA KUMAR @ Mysuru

CHIEF Minister Basavaraj Bommai on Monday ordered officials of the health and women and child welfare department to conduct health checkups of children at all government schools and to boost their immunity as experts have warned of a higher impact of the Covid third wave on children.

He said that local primary health centre doctors and staff will conduct health checkups of children between the ages of six and 16, while the staff of the women and child welfare department will provide nutritious food to malnourished children.

After chairing a review meeting on Covid here, Bommai said that the health department staff will also be conducting follow-up health checkups every fortnight as there are reports that 40 per cent of the State's children are suffering from malnourishment.

On Covid-prevention measures, he said that the government is strictly screening passengers along interstate borders and letting in only those who have negative RT-PCR report.

The health staff will work in three shifts at entry points of Mysuru district as the number of people on transit in the district is the highest after Bengaluru, he added.

Bommai said the government has sought more vaccines and is trying to vaccinate 1.5 crore people per month covering five lakh per day.

"We have directed eight border district administrations to vaccinate all the people within 10 km of the inter-state border and to increase testing in these areas," he said.

99.99 pc pass SSLC, 157 score centum

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

OF 8,71,443 candidates who sat for the OMR-based SSLC exam -- conducted under strict Covid guidelines last month -- 99.99 per cent of students passed successfully. Only one student, who was caught indulging in malpractice through impersonation, failed.

Girls recorded a 99.99 pass percentage, while boys saw 100 per cent, revealed the SSLC results that were announced on Sunday. In all, 157 students secured 625 out of 625, 289 got 623, two got 622, 449 got 621 and 28 got 620. As some students would have suffered due to lack of access to digital education during the lockdown and pandemic, all students were passed. Thirteen students got 28 grace marks each.

Def ministry didn't buy Pegasus. So, who did?

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

IN its first response to the Pegasus snoopgate controversy, the Ministry of Defence on Monday said it did not have any transaction with Israel-based NSO Group, which owns the spyware.

The clarification came from Minister of State for Defence Ajay Bhatt in response to a question by CPI's Rajya Sabha member V Sivadasan. "Ministry of Defence has not had transaction with NSO Group technologies," he said in a statement.

Sivadasan had bundled the question along with others on expenditure incurred by the defence ministry. When the controversy first broke, Union IT minister Ashwini Vaishnaw had in Parliament dismissed media reports on the use of the software to snoop on Indians, saying the allegations were aimed at maligning Indian democracy.

With the defence ministry washing its hands of the military grade cyber weapon, the question is who procured it, since over 1,000 Indian mobile numbers were on the list of possible targets. Also, a few of the instruments were found infected by Pegasus. NSO is emphatic that it supplies its spyware only to verified and vetted governments to help them strengthen internal and external security.

Delhi BJP leader set to be arrested over hate speech

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

AFTER registering a case against unknown persons for raising anti-Muslim slogans at a protest site near Jantar Mantar, Delhi Police said late on Monday night that it will arrest former state BJP spokesperson Ashwani Upadhyay who had organised the event.

Delhi Police issued a statement saying, "Ashwani Upadhyay and others involved in yesterday's incident to be arrested. Delhi Police handling the matter as per law and any communal disharmony not tolerated."

For his part, Upadhyay said he was not responsible for the sloganeering. Sources said the Delhi Police chief asked officials to take strict action as per law.

Earlier in the day, Delhi Police registered an FIR under Section 153-A (promoting enmity between different groups and religions). Hundreds of people attended the protest at Jantar Mantar on Sunday. There are pictures of children holding posters saying Aathank k wajah se Islam Vinash k Kagaar Par (Islam at the brink of annihilation due to terrorism).

UN report predicts heat waves, more rain in India

RICHA SHARMA @ New Delhi

INTENSE heat waves, cyclones, glacial lake bursts, floods and landslides, increased precipitation, glacial melt and ocean warming could impact India in a big way the coming years, warned the Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change (IPCC) in its report released on Monday.

The report said heat waves and humid heat stress will be more intense and frequent during the 21st century in India and both annual and summer monsoon precipitation will increase during the 21st century, with enhanced inter-annual variability.

The surface Indian Ocean, it said, has warmed faster than the global average. "This will further intensify the cyclones, extreme rains, and sea level rise along the coast of India. We already see a 50% increase in Arabian Sea cyclones and a threefold rise in extreme rains causing floods," said Roxy Mathew Koll, Senior Scientist, Indian Institute of Tropical Meteorology & Lead Author of the IPCC's Special Report on the Ocean and Cryosphere in a Changing Climate.

The report projected a increase in annual mean precipitation, adding it will be more severe over south India. On the southwest coast, rainfall could increase by around 20%, relative to 1850-1900. In the event of 4°C warming, India could see about 40% increase in precipitation annually. P7,9

Hot extremes

India is expected to see an increase in frequency and severity of hot extremes. There are likely to be 90 to 120 days in a year with max temperatures above 35°C in case of 1.5 to 2°C warming and over 180 days in case of 4°C warming

Tragedy at Bidadi movie shoot: Fight master electrocuted

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

IN an incident that again tragically highlighted the negligence of film production units, especially while shooting fight sequences, in the country, a fight master was electrocuted when he was enacting a sequence right under a high-tension wire near Bidadi in Ramanagara district on Monday afternoon,

A steel rope that was tied to a crane, which was being used in the shoot, came in contact with the high-tension line on top and a water puddle on the ground, electrocuting the 35-year-old fight master, Vivek, at Joganahalli.

The sequence for the film, Love You, Rachchu, was being shot allegedly without police permission.

The police, who filed a suo motu case of death due to negligence, detained film director Shankar Raj, stunt director Vinod, property owner Puttaraju, and crane driver Madesh Muniyappa. P5

PALIKE PLANS DOOR-TO-DOOR HEALTH CHECKS

Teams of docs, healthcare workers to be deployed in each constituency, keep record

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

REVENUE Minister R Ashoka on Monday said that 108 teams have been formed to undertake door-to-door health checks on people to contain the spread of the virus in Bengaluru city.

Ashoka held a meeting with BBMP officials on the city's Covid case load and rising number of Covid-19 containment zones and clusters. According to the BBMP, there are 160 containment zones in Bengaluru.

Ashoka told the media: "Bommanahalli, Yelahanka and Mahadevapura zones have more cases, while other zones are recording relatively lower numbers. These zones are being given importance and several measures are being taken to contain the spread of the virus. On a trial basis, two teams will be sent for door-to-door health checks, along with doctors, to each constituency. More doctors are being roped in for the survey."

A system is being put in place to maintain a record of each house, he said.

Palike Chief Commissioner Gaurav Gupta said doctors will check the families for Covid symptoms, and carry out immediate testing. Vaccination details will also be collected.

Ashoka said that all facilities like vehicles and other materials will be arranged for healthcare workers.

Every constituency has an on-call duty doctor. Those who test positive will be given medical kits along with doctors' numbers and helpline numbers.

The BBMP is also in talks with apartment federations to organise testing for residents and has directed closing down of common facilities like swimming pools, gyms and parks.

Team constituted to check water logging

BENGALURU: Revenue Minister R Ashoka on Monday directed BBMP staffers to ensure there is no water logging in the city. He also directed them to pay attention to shoulder drains. He said a team will be constituted to address the problem of water clogging during rainy days. "Heavy duty pumps should be used to clear the clogged water areas. Around 209 flood-prone areas have been identified in the city and each place should be monitored carefully to ensure there is no clogging. Storm water drains should also be completely clean," Ashoka said. ENS

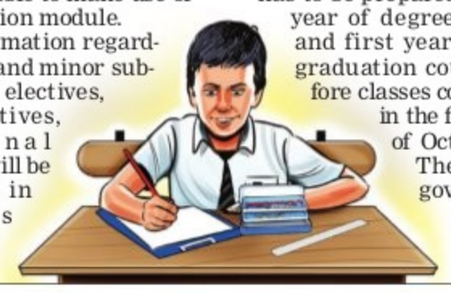
NEP admission module to be out on August 23

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

THE admission module to be followed under National Education Policy, that will be implemented from the current academic year (2021-2021) will be launched through the Unified University & College Management System (UUCMS on August 23, Minister for Higher Education Dr C N Ashwath Narayan said here on Monday.

Addressing a press conference after holding a meeting with vice-chancellors of universities with regard to preparation of curriculum as per NEP-2020, he said that all institutions — including private, aided and government colleges — will be able to make use of the admission module.

All information regarding major and minor subjects, core electives, open electives, vocational training, will be provided in this module.



Narayan said, "In all, 32 subject-wise and faculty-wise committees have been constituted to prepare the curriculum as per NEP principles. For the current year, the curriculum has to be prepared for first year of degree courses and first year of post-graduation courses before classes commence in the first week of October."

The Central government has set a time limit of 15 years for complete implementation of NEP. However, it has been decided to implement it within 10 years in Karnataka.

He said, "The NEP will bring in flexibility in teaching-learning process by eliminating rigidities, and will allow students to design their own courses based on their interests. It also allows for blended learning with the use of online content."

Regional languages will be strengthened. "For instance, in Karnataka, learning the language in degree courses was not mandatory. However, under this policy, Kannada is mandatory. Students will have to learn a language of their choice in the first two years of degree course," Narayan explained.

Meanwhile, the ABVP has demanded complete implementation of the National Educational Policy. In a memorandum to Narayan, the organisation sought fee waiver for students in government colleges, considering the financial difficulties due to the pandemic.

IT was an evening of celebration for twins Dhanushree D and Dhanyashree D from Karnataka Public School, Huliyar Kenkere, Chikkanayakanahalli taluk in Tumakuru district as they both scored 625 out of 625 in the SSLC exams held in July. They studied for a whole year and did not miss a single aspect in their textbooks as they were unsure of the exam's new format — MCQs.

"We were scared to write exams during the pandemic but our parents and teachers encouraged us. We had online classes with two months of offline teaching. During these two months, we cleared all our doubts with the teachers. They also called us to keep track of our homework. Vidyagama was useful to seek clarity on the subjects," said Dhanushree.

Topper twins Dhanushree and Dhanyashree celebrate after SSLC results were announced

Shreesha BS from Government Composite High School, Tanikal, Thirthalli taluk, Shivamogga district, said he owes his cent percent result to his teachers and parents. Due to the lockdown, he got more time to study. "I relied on classes from Chandana TV and Vidyagama to learn. It was difficult as we did not have contact with our teachers," said Shreehsa.

Kavya MK from Widia Poornaprajna High School, Tumakuru Road, Bengaluru district, had the help of her teachers throughout, along with daily assignments including possible questions that would appear in the final exams.

Abhishek Jayanth Holla from Government High School, Valakadu, Udupi taluk said he took up some competitive exams, hence he had an idea of how the SSLC boards would be.

"AT least 16.52 per cent of students got A-plus grade (90-100 marks), 32.07 per cent got A, 36.86 per cent got B and 14.55 per cent got C. Provisional marks cards will be available on the website and the result will also be sent via SMS. In all, 5,063 students who were unable to attend the exams will get a chance again to sit for the exams to be held, tentatively in the third week of September. We will ensure that those who have not obtained hall-tickets for not paying school fees will get them," said Primary and Secondary Education Minister BC Nagesh.

In the first language, 25,702 students got 125 out of 125, 36,628 got 100 on 100 in the second language, 36,776 got centum in the third language, 6,321 got cent per cent in mathematics, 3,649 got the maximum marks in science and 9,376 got full marks in social science. All the 4,626 students, who were differently-abled and took the exam, passed.

Nagesh said that Covid-19 Technical Advisory Committee has advised reopening of schools for grades 9 to 12 from August 23 with both online and offline options. Though experts have said that chances of younger children contracting Covid are lesser. A decision will be taken by the end of this month, he added.

"Teachers are being given priority in Covid vaccination. A total of 74% have got the first dose, while 19% have received the second jab. By August 23, all will be vaccinated. 75% of PU teachers are vaccinated," Nagesh said.

I-Day celebration will be low key this year too

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

LIKE last year, the Independence Day celebrations this time too will be a low-key affair, said Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike (BBMP) Chief Commissioner Gaurav Gupta.

This was decided at a meeting between corporation, health and police department officials on Monday. Gupta told reporters that there will the flag-hoisting ceremony and a ceremonial parade, but no cultural programmes. No people will be allowed at the event, and the final list of all the protocols to be followed will be issued soon, he said.

In the morning, the chief commissioner also participated in an event to observe the anniversary of the 'Quit India Movement' along with former mayors. He called upon people to start a 'Quit Corona Movement' and join hands to fight the pandemic battle.

"Discussions were held with technical advisory committees, experts and the government officials, and based on their suggestions, work is being carried out to handle the Covid situation," he said.

On complaints of citizens getting notices to pay more taxes and penalty, Gupta said that the issue was pending for over four years. The zones have changed, but people were still paying taxes in the old format, he said while admitting that there could be lapses by officials in not informing people, or errors in taxation.

He said that the complaints which had come were being looked into. Gupta asserted that taxes will have to be paid and the penalties will be looked into.

Daily Starscope

PETER VIDAL

10th August: Recently there have been some battles over light pollution, what with high-tech operators putting forward plans to shine lasers into the night sky. This is all very well, but they'd make it even more difficult than it is now to see the stars. If you agree that this would be a bad thing, then join me in trying to keep electric light to a minimum out of doors!

ARIES (Mar 21 - Apr. 20)
You may well get out of bed on the wrong side, but any feelings of despondency might be replaced by a mood of elation if circumstances change for the better. You can expect delays or serious talking at work, but whether these succeed is up to you. That's why you'll have to work out what a partner really wants.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 - May 21)
Your biggest worry is that somebody is likely to go behind your back, or that people will make arrangements without consulting you. Your own uncertainty may contribute to a slightly fraught atmosphere, but as the Sun and Moon make friends again, so your humour will improve.

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21)
Although you must behave with great dignity towards other people, you are allowed to be relatively irresponsible in relation to affairs which concern you, and you alone. Attempts to deal with children may be more time-consuming than usual, but that's something you can live with.

CANCER (June 22 - July 23)
Those of you in the middle of family or domestic complications should find that there are a number of solutions. Maintain a sense of principle and morality, check out legal details and seek assistance from friends. You'll take decisions which make up for the past, but there could still be further delays.

LEO (July 24 - Aug. 23)
Why this should be a time of strained relationships is not entirely clear. The problem is that a deep reservoir of goodwill seems to be upset by a tendency to rash and possibly resentful statements. I think you need to give partners the benefit of the doubt - at least for now.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 - Sept. 23)
The pace of events is due to accelerate today, perhaps beyond what you find comfortable. However, the best way to cope with such change is to accept that the unexpected may happen - and adapt accordingly. Don't be disturbed by delays - they're all part of life's rich tapestry.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 - Oct. 23)
If anyone is guilty of unreasonable behaviour, it may be you. This may sound like a rather harsh judgment, but with the Moon in a particularly stormy mood, your emotions are definitely being whipped up. You probably feel like giving a partner a piece of your mind. Whether you should do so is another matter!

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22)
This is no time to harangue friends or associates who are having a hard time. They need your support and enthusiasm, not your criticism. It's a moment for care and compassion, not competition. After all, you can achieve so much more if you work with people rather than against them.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 - Dec. 22)
It seems likely that, even though there is a risk of social friction, you'll be happiest when mixing in large groups. You may feel trapped by people who get you on your own, possibly with romantic designs. But always remember - nobody can do anything you don't want them to.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)
Today's impressionable Moon adds light to the night sky and inspiration to your life. The important consideration at such times is whether you are prepared to put your plans into effect. If you're feeling up to it, you can always go along with whatever is happening - and don't panic if the pace becomes a little too hot.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 - Feb. 19)
The Moon produces a powerful alignment with your ninth solar house, bringing you closer to a turning-point with regard to all legal questions, foreign connections and educational ambitions. Sensible Aquarians are planning extra-special holidays, combining pleasure with self-improvement.

PISCES (Feb. 20 - Mar 20)
Jupiter is an adequate guarantor of your rights and interests. You are therefore on such a positive path that not even a financial disappointment or setback is likely to undermine your confidence and resolve. Above all, it is awakening your awareness of spiritual dimensions.

State's Covid graph shows improvement

City's recovery rate is now 98.02 per cent, while the mortality rate has remained constant at 1.29 pc for a month

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

SHOWING signs of improvement on the Covid front, Karnataka on Monday reported 1,186 cases, the lowest since March 17 (1,275), with the only exception of July 25 (1,001). The positivity rate also plummeted to 0.89 per cent.

Besides the 1,001 cases on July 25, the least number of cases were reported on July 12 (1,386) and 1,564 cases on March 22. From August 6, Covid cases have been on a decline – from 1,805 cases, followed by 1,610 cases on August 7 and 1,598 cases on August 8. Active cases in Karnataka, too, have been on the decline since August 6 -- from 24,328 on Sunday to 23,316 on Monday.

The state's overall pandemic positivity rate has been steadily declining. On July 1, it was 8.26 per cent, falling to 7.99 per cent on July 11 and further dropping to 7.49 per cent on August 1. On Monday, the positivity rate was 7.30 per cent.

Meanwhile, 1,776 discharges were reported, taking the total number of discharged patients to 28,59,552, while the state's recovery rate went up from 97.91 per cent to 97.93 per cent.

In all, 24 Covid deaths were reported, taking the death toll to 36,793, and mortality rate to 1.26 per cent.

Bengaluru Urban, the district with the highest single-day cases, has however, been reporting low cases over the past couple of days. The numbers shot up to 409 cases on August 1.

'State to get its GST share'

ON Opposition parties asking the State to prevail upon the Centre to release Karnataka's share of GST, Bommai said the Centre has released Rs 12,800 crore, while another Rs 11,300 crore is remaining. "Union Finance Minister Nirmala Seetharaman has assured us that the money will be released," he added. At the same time, he asked the officials to focus on tax collection and to use funds judiciously. Bommai said the Centre has released Rs 1,023 crore under the PM Kisan Samman Nidhi Scheme.

Recovered Corona patients must get tested for Tuberculosis

Bengaluru: A circular issued by the National Health Mission has ordered all Covid-19 recovered patients to get tested for Tuberculosis. Even primary contacts in the same household as the recovered patients must be tested for TB. In a separate circular, the education department has asked the health department to vaccinate headmasters, teachers, and parents of students studying in Classes 9 and 10. In a third circular, the health department has constituted district-wise committees to oversee the training of health staff in Covid management at district training centers. ENS

Docs report 20-30 pc spike in positive patients with thrombosis

IFFATH FATHIMA @ Bengaluru

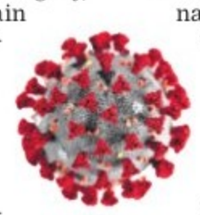
THE second Covid-19 wave saw a big spike of 20-30 per cent in the number of thrombosis cases among patients, compared to thrombosis cases during the first wave.

Thrombosis is the formation or presence of a blood clot in a blood vessel, either vein or artery. During the second wave, a majority of thrombosis patients was in the 30-40 year age group.

While symptomatic Covid patients are more watchful of signs of infection and other symptoms, many asymptomatic patients tend to miss out on these, and some have developed thrombosis.

A 30-year-old patient presented with acute appendicitis, was found to have had deep vein thrombosis in the abdomen area, during surgery. Although the patient reported that he had not contracted Covid, an antibody test detected a high level of antibodies, indicating that he could have had Covid in the past.

In another case, a patient aged 65 years, who was to undergo prostate surgery, complained of pain in the leg. Medical examination revealed that the patient had deep vein thrombosis in his leg, and had been an asymptomatic Covid patient in the past.



Health professionals state that the severity of Covid infection among patients and frequency of thrombosis is not correlated, hence, even asymptomatic patients need to be watchful for symptoms even after recovery.

Dr Joseph Rajendran, Clinical Haematology, Columbia Asia Hospital, Sarjapur Road (a unit of Manipal Hospitals) said, "An asymptomatic Covid patient can develop arterial as well as vein thrombosis. Unfortunately, there is no single test that can detect clots in asymptomatic Covid patients. It is important for such patients to be aware that he/she has a higher risk of thrombosis, like with history of prior thrombosis, immobilisation, patient is on estrogen pills, active cancer etc, and seek medical attention promptly, with the development of slightest swelling of one leg, severe headache with blurring of vision."

IQ level drop in some patients post recovery

IFFATH FATHIMA @ Bengaluru

A recent study published in the Lancet Journal shows there are cognitive deficits in people who have recovered from Covid and that those placed on ventilators showed a drop in their IQ levels.

Health professionals are also coming across patients who are having trouble remembering names and some others with other neurological disorders.

A 28-day analysis shows that two districts in the state have a high mortality growth rate, with Dakshina Kannada at 15.3% Moving Growth Rate (MGR) and Kolar at 16.9%.

According to BBMP war room data, with the rise in cases in Bengaluru, the number of hospital admissions have been increasing from 15 a day to 30, 26, and 43 admissions in the past three days.

CM FIRM ON MEKEDATU, WILL TAKE LEGAL TEAM TO DELHI FOR NOD

Brushes aside objections from Tamil Nadu, gets backing of Oppn, farmers' organisations

K SHIVA KUMAR @ Mysuru

CHIEF Minister Basavaraj Bommai, who is keen to give a decisive push for the Mekedatu project, has planned to take a delegation of experts to Delhi to prevail upon the Jal Shakti Ministry and the Centre and get the Detailed Project Report (DPR) cleared.

Bommai, who was Water Resources Minister in the Yediyurappa Cabinet and had played a key role in the preparation of the DPR, has taken up the Mekedatu project as a priority. He is set to leave for Delhi in 8-10 days along with a team of legal experts to get clearance for the project.

Brushing aside objections raised by Tamil Nadu, he said they are confident of clearing all apprehensions regarding the project. He insisted that there is no irrigation component in the project and added that Karnataka will utilise 6.5 tmcft of water for drinking purposes and generation of hydel power.

Pointing out that Tamil Nadu's objection is misplaced, he said it will amount to opposing the apex court judgment allowing Karnataka to use 6.5 tmcft of water for the drinking water needs of Bengaluru and neighbouring districts. It will be possible to utilise this share if the water level is maintained at 23 tmcft at the Mekedatu reservoir with a proposed maximum of 67.17 tmcft, he noted.

On land acquisition and how the government plans to raise funds to construct the reservoir, he said the process will start only after DPR is cleared. "We will think of floating bonds and mobilising other resources. I am making all efforts to get the project cleared. It will also help in sharing water during distress years," he added.

"We have nothing to do with Tamil Nadu politics. We know how to get it done. We have faced such situations too many times in the past," the chief minister asserted.

Meanwhile, the Opposition parties and farmers' organisations have thrown their weight behind Bommai to start the land acquisition process and groundwork for the project.

The Karnataka Rajya Raitha Sangha has planned to have an interaction with the farmers of Tamil Nadu and convince them about the benefits of the project.

Miffed Ramdass makes a point, skips Bommai programmes

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Mysuru

KRISHNARAJA MLA S A Ramdass, who missed making it to the Bommai Cabinet, stayed away from the programmes atended by the chief minister in Mysuru on Monday. Ramdass, who did not arrive to receive Bommai on his maiden visit to the city after assuming office as the chief minister, even stayed away from the Covid-19 review meeting too.

Ramdass had expressed his displeasure after he was not accommodated in the Bommai Cabinet. He said that a phone call from a person spoilt his chances of becoming a minister.

Ramdass, however, refused to name that person.

Reacting to Ramdass not making it to the Cabinet, Basavaraj Bommai said, "He is a good friend of mine. He is a senior leader of the party and he is disappointed. I will call and speak to him."

Meanwhile, members of the Kodava Samaj submitted a memorandum to the chief minister seeking a ministerial berth for five-time MLA Appachu Ranjan, who represents Madikeri in the Assembly.

10-day legislature session likely in B'luru next month

ASHWINI M SRIPAD @ Bengaluru

THE State Government is likely to hold a 10-day legislature session in the first week of September at Vidhana Soudha in Bengaluru. Though there were demands from various quarters to conduct the session at the Suvarna Vidhana Soudha in Belagavi, the government dropped the plan owing to the Covid-19 pandemic

The Budget session of the legislature was held in March this year. Though it was to be conducted from March 4 to 31, the session was held only till March 24 due to a rise in Covid-19 cases.

Article 174 of the Constitution stipulates that "six months shall not intervene between its last sitting in one session and the date appointed for its first sitting in the next session." As a result, the State Government has to conduct the session on or before September 24, 2021.

According to sources in the Secretariat, the government plans to start the session on September 6 or in the second week of September. Assembly Speaker Vishweshwara Hegde Kageri said, "The Cabinet will decide on the date and schedule."

Law and Parliamentary Affairs Minister J C Madhu Swamy said the government is ready to hold the session by following all Covid-19 protocols. "I shall bring this to the chief minister's notice and by next week, we will place it before the Cabinet for approval. Depending on the Covid-19 situation, we will decide on the number of days," he added. Madhuswamy, however, said that his department is yet to get the details of the Bills that are likely to be taken up for discussion during the session.

The ensuing session will be the first for Basavaraj Bommai as Chief Minister. The Opposition parties are expected to take on the government over its management of the pandemic, including vaccination shortage, floods and a host of other issues.

Satish slams demand to rename Indira Canteens

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Belagavi

KARNATAKA Pradesh Congress Committee working president Satish Jarkiholi on Monday said the party will launch a statewide agitation if the government renames the Indira Canteens. His statement comes at a time when BJP national general secretary C T Ravi has been demanding the government to rename Indira Canteens as Annapoorneshwari canteens.

Speaking to reporters at the Congress office here, he said, "In the last seven years as Prime Minister, Narendra Modi has done nothing for the people. Now, he is trying to prove his achievements by renaming programmes launched by the Congress."

Merely by changing the names of the projects launched by the Congress government, it is not possible for the BJP to suppress the contributions of the party, he said.The Indira Canteens were set up during the tenure of Siddaramaiah as CM.

"By changing the name of Indira Canteens, history will not change. He (Ravi) should know that people are alert and will not get fooled by the tricks of the BJP," Satish added.

Alleging that the government failed miserably in handling the first two waves of the Covid-19 pandemic, Jarkiholi said that the government should wake up and take steps to minimise the adverse effects of the third wave.

At a time when the state is reeling under the pandemic and areas of North Karnataka are witnessing floods, BJP leaders are fighting for portfolios and positions, MLA Laxmi Hebbalakr said. "I will call it greed for power," she added.

51L Karnataka farmers get ₹1,023 cr under PM-Kisan

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

Over 51 lakh farmers across Karnataka received a total of Rs 1,023 crore directly into their bank accounts under the Pradhan Mantri Kisan Samman Nidhi (PM-KISAN) scheme on Monday. "Prime Minister Narendra Modi transferred Rs 19,000 crore to 9.5 crore farmers across the country under PM-Kisan today. Over 51 lakh farmers in Karnataka received Rs 1,023 crore directly into their bank accounts," Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai said.

The PM released the fresh instalment of the financial benefit via video conference. Bommai participated in the meeting from Mysuru. "This scheme has set a new benchmark in tech-enabled good governance," Bommai said. He was in Mysuru on Monday to review the Covid-19 situation in the district.

The State Government implemented the PM-KISAN scheme from February 1, 2019. From March 2019 to July 2021, farmers received financial assistance of Rs 6,940.07 crore from the Centre, a statement issued by the government stated.

Under the scheme, Rs 6,000 is provided to farmers in three instalments of Rs 2,000 each. The State Government provides an additional Rs 4,000 financial assistance to farmers, which is given in two instalments of Rs 2,000. Under the scheme, Rs 9,789.23 crore has been released to farmers till date, the statement added.

Meanwhile, under the Pradhan Mantri Krishi Sinchayee Yojana (PMKSY), the Centre released Rs 300 crore as the first instalment on July 22. Per Drop More Crop (PDMC), a component of PMKSY, is a Centrally-sponsored scheme that focuses on enhancing water use efficiency at the farm-level through micro-irrigation. Under the scheme, financial assistance of 55 per cent for small and marginal farmers and 45 per cent to other farmers is available for installation of micro-irrigation systems.

Zameer suspects political rivalry behind ED raids

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

CONGRESS MLA Zameer Ahmed Khan on Monday said that political rivalry and those unable to tolerate his growth were responsible for the Enforcement Directorate (ED) raids on his residence and offices on August 5.

Khan said the ED raids have nothing to do with the IMA scam, and were related to his house. The raids were conducted based on complaints, and officials have given him 10 days' time to submit the sale deed and details of the contract for construction of the house, he said. The ED did not give him a notice, but asked him to provide a few documents, he said, claiming that most of the documents were given to the officials that very day. Khan said no one from his party had complained, and it could be someone from the BJP or JDS.

Responding to the allegations, former chief minister H D Kumaraswamy said he has nothing to do with the raids.

2023 in Cong sights, list to be ready a year ahead

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru, Belagavi

Keen to be the first off the block in preparations for the 2023 Assembly elections, the Congress in Karnataka is planning to announce its candidates at least a year ahead of the polls, especially in constituencies where it lost in 2018. In some constituencies, aspirants have already begun groundwork hoping to find their names on the party's candidate list.

The three main political parties — the BJP, the Congress and the JDS — are gearing up to face the upcoming election season. A number of elections, including taluk and zilla panchayat polls, bypolls to Sindagi and Hangal Assembly segments, the Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike (BBMP) elections and the MLC elections are scheduled in the months ahead.

A senior Congress leader, who did not want to be identified, admitted that it was not easy for the party to win elections in the current scenario. "We are preparing to win as many seats as possible in the taluk and panchayat polls. We also aim to win the two bypolls and Council polls. We will announce our candidate list for the 2023 Assembly elections in 2022, especially in seats currently represented by non-Congress legislators. It is a challenging task for us," the Congress leader said.

Karnataka Pradesh Congress Committee (KPCC) working president Saleem Ahmed said that announcing candidates well in advance will give the party enough time to understand the pulse of the constituency and the voters. He said that the ensuing taluk and zilla panchayat elections are crucial for the party. "At present, of the 25 MLCs elected by panchayat members, 14 are from the Congress. Our aim is to not just retain them, but also win more seats in the Upper House," he said.

According to another KPCC working president, Satish Jarkiholi, the issue of announcement of party candidates a year ahead of the next election in the state is being already discussed at various party platforms. Jarkiholi said such a step will also help overcome intra-party tussle and differences between the leaders. "The top party leadership is aware of the issue and hopefully, a final shape would be given to it soon," he added.

FOR BETTER INCOME

Tired of long wait, govt employees' assn sets up internal panel on pay disparity

ASHWINI M SRIPAD @ Bengaluru

PUSHING for better pay, the Karnataka State Government Employees' Association has constituted an internal committee to study the difference in their salaries, as compared to Union Government employees. The committee, which includes retired employees who had worked for the Pay Commissions, hopes to submit its report to Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai in a month.

The report is expected to give complete data and a comparison of salaries in various cadres between state and central government employees. This apart, it will also highlight the salary structure of employees in other states as well as high court staffers in Karnataka. Over 5.3 lakh regular employees and 1.5 lakh contractual staffers work in the 72 departments of the State Government which include agriculture, Home, urban development, health, tourism, education, food and civil supplies, power, water resources, excise, medical education, etc.

Association president C S Shadakshari told The New Indian Express that as against 7.7 lakh sanctioned posts, there are 5.4 lakh staffers working. Due to the large number of vacancies, the burden on the existing staff has increased in some departments, he pointed out.

According to Shadakshari, while a Group-D employee with the State Government gets Rs 25,000 per month, a Central Government employee gets Rs 36,000. Similarly, a first division assistant in the State Government gets Rs 40,000 while an FDA with the Central Government earns Rs 55,000 per month. "There is a difference of anywhere between Rs 6,000 and Rs 40,000 across cadres. The state employees do the same kind of work, put in the same efforts, but their salaries are less," he said. Further, he pointed out that 22 states including Gujarat, Tamil Nadu, Andhra Pradesh, Kerala and other states have brought state government employees' salaries on par with Central Government employees. "Karnataka is among the few states where government employees get lower salaries. We are therefore demanding the government to bring it on par with central government employees," he said. "We hope the CM will announce the same in the next budget," he added.

The CCB detained a habitual offender, Naveen MN alias Sharat (28), who ran prostitution rackets despite being arrested several times, under the stringent Goonda Act. "The accused trafficked women from other states with the help of his associates and forced them into flesh trade," the police said.

Rights body notice to Railway official over child labour

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

TAKING serious note of the use of child labour in railway work, the National Commission for Protection of Child Rights (NCPCR), New Delhi, has asked the General Manager of South Western Railway Zone to submit a detailed report within a week. It has also ordered the Ramanagara Deputy Commissioner to investigate into the incident and submit an inquiry report on the action taken.

On August 2, TNIE had published a report (Contractor held for child labour) regarding a railway contractor employing child labour to carry out hazardous work of placing stones on the railway tracks near Settihalli railway station in Bengaluru railway division. According to a reliable source, the notice was issued by the NCPCR on August 3. The Commission stated that it has taken suo motu cognizance of the report which highlighted seven children — three girls and four boys — performing a hazardous and risky job.

Signed by Anu Chaudhary, Registrar, NCPCR, the letter to the SWR General Manager says, "You are requested to send detailed report of this case within seven days of issue of this letter along with policies/ guidelines framed by the Railway authorities to prevent such type of cases pertaining to child labour."

2 men from Rajasthan held with drugs worth ₹2 crore

ENS @ Bengaluru

THE City Market police have arrested two men from Rajasthan for drug peddling, and have seized drugs worth Rs 2 crore.

The duo, Pappuram alias Raj alias Ravi Purohit and Chunnilal alias Sunil, are both aged 20 years, and hail from Rajasthan. They are residents of Attibele.

Police said the two were arrested following information that some people were selling narcotic substances at Godown Street, on Sunday evening. A team rushed to the spot and nabbed the two after brown sugar and MDMA were found on them.

"We seized 21 grams of brown sugar, 59 grams of MDMA, two digital weighing machines, and other articles from them at the time of their arrest. Further investigation led us to seize 800 grams of MDMA, 1.600 kg of brown sugar, 1-kilo mixing powder, 1.700 kg of ganja, a car, and other articles from Pappuram's house," the police added.

NO COMPLAINT FILED SO FAR, SAY POLICE

A senior police officer said the crew should have mandatorily taken the clearance from the police and fire and emergency services before starting the shoot at the spot, which is right under a high-tension power line.

The police said the steel wire attached to the crane was touching the water puddle on the ground where the fight sequence involving Vivek was being shot. When the crane driver tried to lift the metal rope higher, the crane came in contact with the overhead high-tension line. Electricity surged to the water puddle where Vivek was standing and killed him instantly. Assistant fight master Ranjith (26), who was standing just outside the puddle, suffered burn injuries and is being treated at Rajrajeshwarinagar Hospital.

The lead actor of the film, Ajay Rao, told TNIE, "I was 200 meters away from the spot where the fight sequence was being shot. I heard screams and saw sparks coming from that direction. I rushed to the spot and learnt that Vivek had died. The film crew had stocked water near the spot for the fight sequence. I had refused to be part of the stunt scene because of Covid." After some film crew members alerted them, the Bidadi police rushed to the spot. But by the time they reached, most of the crew members had escaped. Later, the police shifted Vivek's body to Rajarajeshwari Hospital for the postmortem.

The film also stars Rachita Ram opposite Ajay Rao and the film is produced by Guru Deshpande, who could not be contacted by the police for questioning.

A senior police officer said that no written complaint has been filed so far and they took up a suo motu case before detaining some of the film crew members.

WHEN TRAGEDY UNSPOOLS

In February 2020, an assistant director and two others died, while nine people sustained injuries at a private studio at Nazarathpet in Chennai. A crane used in the shooting came crashing down on the location where the Kamal Haasan-starrer was being shot.

In November 2016, a stunt scene went horribly wrong when stuntmen Anil and Raghav Uday drowned after jumping from a helicopter into TG Halli reservoir while shooting for Kannada film Masti Gudi. Lead actor Duniya Vijay was, however, rescued.

TN FINANCES IN DIRE STRAITS, SAYS FIN MIN

Releases white paper, says public debt per family is Rs 2.63 lakh

T MURUGANANDHAM @Chennai

HIGHLIGHTING the "mismanagement of funds" during the previous AIADMK regime on various counts, Tamil Nadu Finance Minister Palanivel Thiaga Rajan on Monday said the State's finances were in dire straits, and indicated that structural reforms to put the economy back on its rails would follow in the ensuing revised Budget for 2021-22. He also promised that the "deterioration of the State's finances" during the past seven years would be set right in the next five years.

"In the last three-to-four years, borrowing has been resorted to even for non-discretionary spending, like salaries, pension and interest payments, which were for many years before met out of the regular revenue receipts of the government. This practice must be stopped," the minister said while releasing the white paper on the State's finances.

Charging that ₹1 lakh crore revenue has been lost due to mismanagement during the AIADMK regime, the minister said the revenue deficit stood at ₹61,320 crore for 2020-21 (3.16 per cent of GSDP) and the revenue deficit of TN has been increasing for eight years and Tamil Nadu has become a chronic revenue-deficit State since 2013. The fiscal deficit for 2020-21 is ₹92,305 crore (4.43 per cent of GSDP).

"As of now, the public debt in the State is ₹2,63,976 per family. While Tamil Nadu had a deficit of 1.5 per cent in 2017-18 and 1.4 per cent in 2018-19, States like Maharashtra, Gujarat and Karnataka recorded revenue surpluses in both years," the white paper said.

"The present decline is reversible. What we need is people's cooperation. We understand that profound structural reforms in many aspects, starting with the government's functioning, and expanding to many areas of policy and legislation, are needed," he said.

Climate report no surprise, developed nations must respect Paris Accord, says scientist

BALA CHAUHAN @ Bengaluru

THE United Nation's Inter-Governmental Panel on Climate Change (IPCC) on Monday released its sixth assessment report in which scientists confirmed that human influence has warmed the climate system, raising global surface temperature.

UN Secretary-General Antonio Guterres has called the IPCC assessment -- the most detailed review of climate science ever conducted – "code red for humanity".

India is one of the 195 members of the IPCC. Underscoring the report, distinguished scientist in the Ministry of Earth Sciences and Director, National Institute of Advanced Studies (NIAS), Dr Shailesh Nayak said the report has not come as a surprise. "We know that temperatures are rising all over the world, and we are heading towards a catastrophe. Unfortunately, the problem of climate change has not been addressed by developed countries. They keep shifting the goalpost; from the Kyoto Protocol to Paris Agreement to now the COP26 to be held this year-end at Glasgow. Nothing substantial will come out of this meeting unless we see something in practice," said the scientist.

He added that every country has a responsibility based on equity. "Where is the $100 billion investment, agreed upon by the developed world towards climate change in the Paris Agreement? There is a cost to developing technology and human resources for climate change, and no one is talking about it post the Paris Agreement. Shifting goalposts will not help address a looming apocalypse," he said.

The NIAS director added that the record of the developing world is "better than first world countries. India has done far better than the US, UK and other developed countries in respecting the Paris Agreement and its commitment towards renewable energy".

He said there are three aspects to global warming. "There is knowledge that climate change is upon us, which will have a devastating impact on lives and livelihood. There has to be a global response by all stakeholders; this is missing. Developing countries cannot be made scapegoats. They can't be told to shut down thermal power stations. It is not feasible. The government of a country has to balance between knowledge of climate change and human requirement. India needs thermal power to electrify its villages," he said.

"Greenhouse gases during the past 150 years or so are responsible for warming of atmosphere by 1.1°C. It is expected to touch 1.5°C during the next 20 years. It is the responsibility of all countries to address issues on reducing emissions in historical, current and future context and ensure equity," added Dr Nayak.

CLARION CALL

Hundreds of people gathered at the Congress Dalitha Girijana Athmagavrava Sabha at Indervalli village in Telangana on Monday, to raise voice against K Chandrashekhar Rao's "misrule". All roads seemed to have led to the village in the tribal heartland. As the Gonds livened up the occasion with their traditional Gussadi dance, more Adivasis and SC, who flowed in like a tide filled the venue of the meeting, organised to coincide with the International Day of the World's Indigenous Peoples.

K'buragi sees more child marriages amidst Covid

RAMKRISHNA BADSESHI @ Kalaburagi

THERE has been an increase in the number of child marriages in rural areas of Kalaburagi district as compared to last year, which officials attribute to the Covid pandemic.

As per the statistics available with The New Indian Express, seven child marriages took place between April and March of last year (2020-21), while child marriage prevention authorities stopped 135 such illegal alliances in different parts of the district. But in just four months of this year -- between April and July -- 15 child marriages (more than the double of last year) have been reported from different parts of the district, while authorities prevented 83 such weddings.

Vithal Chikani, Director of NGO Samaskar Pratisthana engaged in welfare of children and women, said child marriages have increased since last year as compared to previous years because schools are closed and there is a communication gap between different government agencies.

Lack of awareness and poverty are forcing parents in rural areas to marry off their minor daughters, he added. Official sources admitted that many child marriages have been performed without their notice.

Indian ships arrive in Brunei for bilateral exercise

Visakhapatnam: In pursuance of India's 'Act East' Policy, Indian naval ships Shivalik and Kadmatt arrived at Muara, Brunei as part of their deployment to South East Asia on Monday. During the stay at Muara, the crew of both the ships will participate in various bilateral professional interactions with the Royal Brunei Navy. The exercise will provide an opportunity to both the navies to enhance interoperability, gain from the best practices and develop common understanding of procedures for Maritime Security Operations. The harbour interactions and exercises at sea aim to consolidate the strong bond shared by the two navies and would be another step towards strengthening India-Brunei defence relations. ENS

'Won't allow anyone to fish in troubled waters'

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Kozhikode

MUSLIM League leader Panakkad Syed Moyin Ali Shihab Thangal on Monday said that he does not hold personal grudge against anyone and would work unitedly for strengthening the party.

"The party is supreme," said Moyin Ali in a Facebook post, his first reaction after the IUML leaders' meet said his behaviour at the press conference in Kozhikode was unwarranted and against the tradition of the Panakkad family.

The meeting had also entrusted IUML state president and Moyin Ali's father Panakkad Syed Hyderali Shihab Thangal to take 'appropriate action' against the young leader. While addressing a news conference last Thursday, Moyin Ali had said that IUML national general secretary P K Kunhalikutty was responsible for the financial mismanagement in the party that led to the crisis in 'Chandrika'.

Moyin Ali said he "will not encourage anyone who is trying to fish in troubled waters".

CPM to set age cap of 75 for central panel members, Pinarayi to be exempted

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ T'Puram

IN an obvious move to make the party more appealing to younger generations and to infuse energy into it, the CPM has decided to set 75 as the age-cap for its Central Committee members. Currently, it is 80.

The decision comes in the run up to the 23rd Party Congress slated to be held next April in Kannur. An informal decision has however been made to exempt 76-year-old Pinarayi Vijayan, taking into account his official position.

"For those in the Central Committee and the Politburo, 75 years would be the age limit. State committees normally have it lower. We have left it to the state committees to decide," said CPM general secretary Sitaram Yechury on Monday.

He said a decision on whether to give exemption to Pinarayi will be taken later. Pinarayi and 83-year-old S Ramachandran Pillai are the two Kerala leaders who have crossed the new age limit. Suggestions have also come in to set an age cap of 70 for state committee members.

Sources said the Central Committee's decision was unanimous.

"The CC took the decision now so that the state conferences can take a leaf out of it and ensure more young blood into the party. In line with the CC decision, the state committees can ensure more representation for the youth in the party committees. As far as Pinarayi is concerned, it goes without saying that he would be given exemption," said a Central Committee member from the state.

Briefing the media on the decisions of the three-day meet in Delhi, Yechury admitted that there was criticism in the CC against keeping former health minister K K Shailaja away from the second Pinarayi cabinet. Yechury however justified the decision to keep Shailaja away. The people have accepted the Left policy to bring in changes, and that's why the Left retained power, he pointed out.

"The issue came up not only about Shailaja but also about dropping those who contested twice. But it was a policy decision. No exceptions could be made. Making any exception means that the policy cannot be implemented," said Yechury.

At 65, she fights off croc and lives to tell her tale

ASHIS SENAPATI @ Kendrapara

SIXTY-FIVE but fighting fit to thwart an eight feet of reptile ferocity. That is what Ahalya Parida is. A day after she hit back at a crocodile trying to drag her into the river water around Bhitarkanika National Park, Ahalya has lived to tell the tale.

"I was shocked when the crocodile suddenly appeared from the water and held onto my legs while I was washing utensils at the river ghat," remembers the native of Chatrabandi village in Kendrapara district while undergoing treatment in the Community Health Center at Mahakalapada.

She started shouting but instead of waiting for any help, she pricked the eyes of the young crocodile. Hurt, the reptile loosened its grip allowing her to escape from its jaws, as well as that of sure death.

Ahalya fought bravely to save her life but was shifted to a private hospital in Bhubaneswar for her treatment as her condition was serious.

She sure has become talk of the riverside villages for her valiant fight but the incident has sent shockwaves as four persons have already been killed in crocodile attacks within three months around the park.

NABARD TO SOON HOLD VIRTUAL EXPO TO SUPPORT K'TAKA WEAVERS

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru:

TO give a fillip to handloom products in both the domestic market and overseas, National Bank for Agriculture and Rural Development (NABARD) will, for the first time, organise a virtual global expo on August 15, especially targeting Kannadigas living in North America, said Neeraj Kumar Verma, Chief General Manager, NABARD, on Monday.

He told the media that the virtual expo is a crucial step to support weavers of Karnataka. "For us, weaving may be our culture, but for weavers, it is their livelihood. We want to take rural art to the global market, which is also the motto of the meet," he said. The meet is a part of Handloom Week being observed across the country.

NABARD has partnered with the NGO Shreni Samudaya, a community network for sustainable livelihoods, for the event. Uma Bhathi, AGM, NABARD added that at the meet, weavers from Karnataka will set up stalls, one from each district, and will be given a platform to explain the products and make sales. A buyer-seller interactive meet will also be enabled. "Since this is the first year, we are focusing on dwellers in North America as they are very keen on the products here. The need for going virtual arose because of the pandemic, where everyone is online. So we decided to create a platform for weavers to come together and this is being done on a pilot basis," she said.

Uma added that many people are unaware that each district of Karnataka has a unique handloom item. Awareness will be raised through this event, and the artisans will also get a platform to cut through private competition. The Export Promotion Council of Handicrafts is also hosting similar events.

189 events held in first week of Cauvery Calling

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

IN the first week of the launch of the Cauvery Calling project – a tree plantation drive – the Isha Foundation has organised 189 events in 189 taluks of nine districts along the Cauvery basin. According to an offiical release, the outreach campaign was held in 1,785 gram panchayats in Bengaluru Rural, Chikkamagalur, Chamarajanagara, Hassan, Kodagu, Mysuru, Mandya, Ramanagara and Tumakuru since August 2.

The foundation has joined hands with the Rural Development and Panchayat Raj Department and the forest, horticulture and sericulture departments and is conducting 1,800 awareness-generation events in every gram panchayats, district and taluk headquarters.

In the last one week, many prominent government officials and elected members of districts chaired these events, including MLA Devalhalli Nisarga Narayana Swamy, MLA Varuna Yathindra Siddaramaiah and MLA Belur KS Lingesh.

YET ANOTHER ALARM BELL, ACT NOW ON CLIMATE CHANGE

For three consecutive years, Karnataka was battered by heavy rains, resulting in landslides and floods. While its impact inevitably is on life, livelihood and the economy, its cause is climate change due to human activity. There is an irony. Human activity aims at sustaining populations through infrastructure development for better living. But nature-infringing projects trigger climate change. This expresses itself through devastation on the very human conditions that are sought to be improved.

The fragile Western Ghats is being eyed for more infrastructure projects. The impact is seen in massive landslides in the Malnad region besides flooding and washing away of roads in North Karnataka. The effects of climate change are seen not just in one region, but from Uttarakhand and Assam to Kerala and Maharashtra, with people suffering land and crop losses for years, forcing them to shut production and shift to urban areas. The devastating floods in Europe and China, besides the wildfires in Australia, Brazil and the US, have set alarm bells ringing more than ever before. Studies at the Divecha Centre for Climate Change (IISc) time and again indicate that the water-holding capacity in the atmosphere increases by 7% with each degree rise in atmospheric temperature, thus causing an increase in rainfall.

On Monday, the UN's Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change in its latest assessment report stated that the world, which warmed 1.1 degrees Celsius since pre-industrial levels, is now moving towards the 1.5 degrees Celsius mark. This is the critical threshold, which means absolutely no time left for mitigation efforts. The symptoms are the warning bells: change in precipitation and heavier rainfall, coastal erosion due to rising sea levels, and rising temperatures (this July being the warmest since 1901)—even as tree cover is being depleted, giving way to what we call "development", a recipe for landslides and loss of life and livelihood. The impact of climate change is gradual, but its mitigation should not be. The time to act on a war footing is now. Repentance is just not an option.

DEVELOPING ODISHA'S BACKWARD REGIONS

There is a strong buzz in the western region of Odisha that has witnessed a rush of development activities of late. New projects were unveiled before the Covid second wave caused disruption. With the situation abating, a flurry of visits by the top bureaucracy to clearly pronounce timelines for big-ticket infrastructure lying in the backburner has coincided with a sudden awakening of the usually dormant Western Odisha Development Council (WODC), a separate entity that the Naveen Patnaik government floated in 2000. Now there is clamour in the power corridors that the government is mulling a separate administrative department for western districts to force the pace of development in the region.

Politically, this is seen as a move to gain advantage ahead of the crucial panchayat and urban body elections in the state. But politics can wait. Development must not. The western region has wallowed in backwardness despite decades of focused plans. It's exactly what had prompted Naveen to create the WODC to supplement development initiatives through community-based projects. Twenty years hence, the council remains a body with little to no contribution—so much so that last year, the CAG even questioned its very continuance. Of the 89 blocks under 10 districts that come under the WODC's ambit, 34 are categorised as very backward while 25 are backward. The apex audit body found funds were pumped into developed and developing blocks whereas the backward ones received peanuts between 2015 and 2018.

With no autonomy and financial powers, the WODC has been reduced to an extended arm of the administrative department of the state. Now, instead of making a course correction and empowering it, the government appears to be taking a potentially risky move of creating a dedicated department for the region. Politically lucrative as it may appear, it could open the doors for other regions to make a similar demand. Southern districts that are part of the erstwhile Kalahandi Balangir Koraput (KBK) region too have similar unflattering development indices. Hence it would be unwise on part of the Odisha government to focus on political benefits and remain oblivious to true development needs.

To cement the success in Kashmir, there is a dire need for a strategy with a clearly earmarked role for different organisations. None of this should be left to imagination

J&K: STRATEGISE TO REINFORCE INITIAL SUCCESS

LT GEN SYED ATA HASNAIN (RETD)

Former Commander, Srinagar-based 15 Corps. Now Chancellor, Central University of Kashmir

AMIT BANDRE

As the nation marked the second anniversary of the constitutional decisions on Jammu & Kashmir taken on 5 August 2019, the debate on which way the situation had moved was largely uninformed. So hugely polarised are the narratives within India based upon political leanings that the worth of the decisions for national good is lost sight of. To imagine that the J&K issue has been resolved in our favour would be a folly and yet to say that the decisions were regressive would be an untruth too. There are miles to go and alienation continues to loom large, but a huge dent has been made into all that enabled separatist trends to flourish with impunity. The last two years have been partially consumed by post-decision management. The pandemic has taken its toll on the energy and commitment to recover from the surprise decision and the sudden new empowerment. As such, a pragmatic and balanced assessment of what has transpired in these two years can only be done peripherally. More important is to view the righting of many wrongs that were assisting the separatists and the Pakistani deep state to fight the proxy war with relative ease. Most of these existed in the non-military domain and appear well on the way to be corrected.

Two years into the process of attempting a comprehensive end to separatism, a change in sentiment has begun and will take further shape contingent upon our subsequent handling and the counter-narratives. Reforms, however, have been undertaken to the extent possible in the limited functional time and have begun to manifest results. The commerce and infrastructure sectors have found new energy. Recent media reports indicate that the new industrial policy announced four months ago has resulted in the investment of almost ₹23,000 crore with a near-equitable distribution between the Jammu and the Kashmir segments. This reportedly is well past the MoU stage with actual transfer of funds. Steel, telecom, cyber optics and hosiery are the areas in which investments have been made. If further stabilisation is achieved in the security and political domains, state officials expect this figure to touch ₹35,000 crore by the end of the financial year.

The expected anti-corruption drive has been undertaken and will progressively take more effective shape with greater oversight and accountability exercised by the Centre and the UT government, as the pandemic eases. Taxation laws have been streamlined; panchayats have received greater attention with more devolution of functions and funds. New laws of domicile have in no way opened the floodgates for people from all over India to settle in J&K or own property, but relevant empowerment of those denied property rights all these years has been achieved. The new laws have largely found support due to them setting right many of the existing laws on gender and rights of the weaker segments of society. This will correct the social deficit that existed all these years. Politically the importance of grassroots democracy was realised through the conduct of the first-ever District Development Council elections. While the delimitation exercise is on (the last one took place in 1995), there is every possibility of the Assembly elections taking place in 2022 or 2023, which will lead to the formation of an elected government. There is a popular groundswell in favour of Central rule among some segments of society fearing that Assembly elections may bring back much of the same politics back to J&K. However, there is no better step towards cementing a good and bold decision than re-introduction of all democratic norms.

> So hugely polarised are the narratives within India based upon political leanings that the worth of the decisions for national good is lost sight of. To imagine that the J&K issue has been resolved in our favour would be a folly and yet to say that the decisions were regressive would be an untruth too

The decision to keep the Jammu and the Kashmir divisions together as a UT is not fully supported by many, but in national interest was probably the most prudent option. However, more efforts are needed to remove antipathy between the two segments that has existed for long and especially got exacerbated after 1989. I have long advocated mutual adoption of cities and even districts to overcome bitterness. Greater interaction through sports, education, trade and culture exchanges will have a salutary effect over the bitterness of a couple of decades. Jammu has much to contribute to the nation through this act of outreach. No one understands the problems of J&K as well as the people of Jammu do.

There can be no denial of the fact that the one of the biggest obstacles to the success of further integration is the constant flow of propaganda from Pakistan through social media; much of it is also generated within Kashmir. While separatist leaders and political ideologues appear to have been marginalised and even neutralised to some extent, one cannot say the same of the religious rabble rousers. Undercurrents of radical religious thinking seem to continue although efforts to bring counter-narratives against radicalisation are being made by agencies. This is one field in which adversaries will wish to protect their turf and prevent dilution; after all a long campaign has been played out by them to bring more obscurantist theology to J&K to suppress the tolerant and middle path Sufi order. The social domain holds the key and it needs a huge amount of face-to-face engagement with the local people if we wish to make further progress.

To cement the success and take the campaign of development, good governance and outreach to the people with integration as the aim, there is a dire need for a strategy with a clearly earmarked role for different organisations and entities. None of this should be left to imagination and self-perception. Let the prevailing peace never be mistaken for normalcy; a bounce back to negative days can always be triggered if networks are allowed to revive. Peace and stability are necessary for the administration to deliver on development. The Army must not dilute its grid for reinforcement of the northern borders. Holding the proverbial periphery is as essential as it is for the agencies and the local police to dismantle the numerous networks, work on which is in progress. Bold decisions such as those taken on 5 August 2019 require intense follow-up as the risks they run are high. The follow-up has to be strategised and way points carefully identified to determine the path forward. Left rudderless, such processes run the danger of calamitous failure, something that the nation just cannot afford.

CAN E-COMMERCE PLATFORMS HAVE THEIR OWN BRANDS?

KARAN BHASIN

New York-based policy researcher

SOMYA LUTHRA

Delhi-based legal researcher

The other day, one of us came across a discussion on Twitter about a new brand of products being sold on an e-commerce platform. The brand in itself was owned by the e-commerce platform. The next moment, there was a debate after a tweet by one of the authors about this violating antitrust legislation and being unethical.

However, many were quick to point out that most retailers do push products under their own brand or with simple packaging at a discount. The issue of existing e-commerce platforms having their own brand seemed like a problem, which was subsequently discussed by both the authors. This column is a culmination of that.

We view e-commerce platforms as marketplaces—that is, they serve as a place where multiple buyers come together and interact with numerous sellers. In fact, online multi-brand platforms serve as an excellent example of near-perfect markets in reality as there is perfect information, real-time price-matching and an interaction of multiple buyers and sellers. The only issue is that unlike conventional markets, online platforms and the rules of trade on it are dependent on the policies of the platform itself.

These policies may not necessarily be different from the laws governing trade and commerce in any particular country; however, there may be other technical rules in excess of the laws that may apply while participating through these platforms. For example, a finders' fee levied by the marketplace may not be regulated and can also be arbitrarily determined. More so when these marketplaces are owned by a few conglomerates, thereby limiting competition and choice for the consumers and producers. In many ways, we have gone from having free markets to a situation where we now have oligopolistic markets with competitive firms trying to push their products. The question really is whether oligopolistic markets will function just as well as free markets. We know that oligarchs tend to extract rent as compared to competitive firms, so why should oligopolistic markets be any different?

There is a fundamental difference if a retail store pushes for their own products in their stores as we are dealing with an individual establishment there. However, e-commerce is different in terms of the sizable scale of its operation. That is, such platforms have humongous reach and flow of data, which enables them to adequately forecast the demand for any particular item being sold during a given period. Given their scale of operations, they can launch a simple product under their own brand name, procure it from a factory across the world in bulk and distribute it across their network. The problem here is not that they will replace middlemen, but that they can augment their platforms against other producers with the objective of monopolising even production, not just distribution or trade, of commodities. Moreover, the use of information for such purposes automatically puts the sellers on the platform at a disadvantage.

> The essence of capitalism was in competition and free markets were supposed to create that. Online marketplaces were a great enabler for connecting buyers with sellers; however, they no longer serve as an example of what a free market should look like

This is precisely why there is a need to revisit whether such e-commerce platforms should be allowed to have their own brands in the first place. Moreover, there is also a need to discuss the use of proprietary information and evaluate the rules governing the same, including their dissemination. This should ideally be included in the proposed data protection regulations as well as the new rules concerning e-commerce. Further, there should be a serious enquiry regarding antitrust issues along with a revisiting of existing trade rules to bring them up to date with the digital world.

We must remember that the essence of capitalism was in competition and free markets were supposed to create that. Online marketplaces were a great enabler for connecting buyers with sellers; however, they no longer serve as an example of what a free market should look like. Releasing products under their own brand, along with promoting them on their platform by itself, is a violation of the free market as it in effect puts a huge entry barrier for many. Then there is the issue of de-platforming sellers with the intention of benefiting one particular company—again, an unethical practice.

That these practices exist is well known, as is the fact that e-commerce does provide us with utility and convenience. The question that we face is how to combine the best of both worlds, that is, how to extract the benefits of efficient e-commerce while preserving the free nature of our markets.

Given that these platforms essentially provide us with a public good, there is a case for more proactive regulation in this space. Moreover, pushing for more such e-commerce platforms to create greater competition will also help as markets will themselves discipline all participants. However, given the capital-intensive nature of the sector, there is limited space for fresh entrants. Therefore, we may have to bite the bullet here and work with regulation, restrictions on unfair trade practices and an expanded set of voluntary disclosures to create a level playing field.

Avoid physical torture

Chief Justice of India N V Ramana was right in pointing out that the threat to human rights is highest in police stations. As he observed, custodial torture and other police atrocities still prevail in our society. The police need to be trained to extract facts from suspects using modern methods and avoid physical torture.

Dr M Haneef, Kottayam

Raise awareness of rights

The CJI was right in saying that custodial torture and other police atrocities are increasing in India. In spite of constitutional guarantees, people are afraid to approach police stations. He further said that to keep police excesses in check, awareness about our right to legal aid and the availability of free legal services is necessary.

No booster shots for now

The World Health Organization has rightly called for a stoppage of booster doses of Covid vaccines as many poor, underdeveloped and developing countries are still struggling to ensure first doses to their citizens. There is an abundance of vaccine production in richer nations. They should donate or sell these excess jabs to the countries facing a shortage. The UN should coordinate vaccine distribution to other countries, especially those that don't have the scientific wherewithal to create their own.

R Sampath, Chennai

Stop assaulting medicos

The increasing incidents of physical assault on healthcare workers, especially doctors, across the country is a disturbing trend, especially in the midst of the pandemic. Relatives of some patients don't seem to hesitate to attack doctors in the event of an unfavourable outcome as they are assured about getting away with it thanks to legal inadequacies.

Dr George Jacob, Kochi

Can't trust Pakistan

Pakistanis are masters of lies and cover-ups after every unethical act. Therefore, the reports of the arrest of the vandals who attacked the Hindu temple in the Punjab province could be deceptive. That the Pakistani state has long fanned hatred against Hindus and other minority communities is well-known. So the attack could have been done with the support of higher authorities.

Root out terrorism

J&K L-G Manoj Sinha's assertion that he is committed to rooting out terrorism from the Valley is welcome. Terrorism is a global issue and we must liaise with other countries to eliminate this.

Defied all odds

Congratulations to wrestler Bajrang Punia for the never-say-die attitude he showed in the Tokyo Olympics, bagging a bronze medal. Braving a knee injury, he defied all odds to win India's second wrestling medal. He even removed the protective strap over his knee, risking a bigger injury, to go all out against his opponent in the bronze medal match.

Creating a sports culture

This is with reference to What Neeraj moment means to athletics (Aug 9). India is brimming with talent, but its inability to bring it to the spotlight is because people don't choose it as a career due to poor socio-economic conditions. It is time that society as well as authorities hunt for young talent in different streams, arrange for their all-round upliftment and create a genuine sports culture in the nation.

'Small, marginal farmers are on top of agri-policy'

Time to give direction to agriculture for facing challenges, says Modi

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

PRIME Minister Narendra Modi on Monday said his government accords top priority in its policy making to small and marginal farmers.

Modi virtually transferred the ninth installment of the PM Kisan Nidhi scheme to 9.75 crore farmers. The ninth installment of the scheme, which provides for payment of ₹2,000 each three times a year directly into the bank accounts of the farmers, cost ₹19,500 crore to the exchequer.

On the occasion after a brief interaction with beneficiaries, the PM hailed the farmers for increasing the production of pulses in the past six years, and underlined that India is now in the top 10 countries exporting agricultural products.

Stating that he had urged the farmers to increase the production of pulses when there was a shortage a few years ago, Modi complimented them saying that there has been an increase of almost 50 per cent in the production in the last six years.

We have to take this opportunity to decide where we want to see India in next 25 years. ...Our agriculture and farmers have a big role in determining the condition of India in 2047

Narendra Modi, Prime Minister

The PM emphasised that ₹1,70,000 crore was directly paid into the accounts of the farmers for the procurement of rice at the minimum support prices, while the same for the wheat has been about ₹85,000 crore.

"With National Edible Oil Mission-Oil Palm, the country has taken a pledge for self-reliance in edible oil, and more than ₹11,000 crore will be invested in the cooking oil ecosystem," he said, adding that small farmers are now being given utmost priority.

On the government bid to work on self-reliance in edible oil, he said it will be ensured that farmers get all the facilities, from quality seeds to technology.

Referring to the upcoming 75th Independence Day, he said it was an opportunity for new resolutions. "We have to take this opportunity to decide where we want to see India in the coming 25 years. ...Our agriculture and our farmers have a big role in determining the condition of India in 2047, when the country completes 100 years of independence," he said.

PM's 5 principles for maritime security

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

PRIME Minister Narendra Modi on Monday became the first Indian head of government to chair and preside over a UN Security Council debate where he proposed five principles to prepare a global framework on maritime security.

During his virtual address at the UNSC debate 'Enhancing Maritime Security - A Case for International Cooperation', Modi said that the maritime routes were being misused for piracy and terrorism.

Elaborating the five principles, he said that barriers for legitimate maritime trade must be removed. "We should remove barriers for legitimate maritime trade. Global prosperity depends on the active flow of maritime trade. Any hindrance in maritime trade can threaten the global economy," he added.

Modi said the second principle was the peaceful settlement of maritime disputes based on international law. "This is very important for mutual trust and confidence. This is the only way we can ensure global peace and stability."

Urging the global community to come together to face natural disasters and maritime threats by non-state actors, Modi said India has taken many steps to enhance regional cooperation in this aspect.

The last two principles that the PM proposed were the preservation of maritime environment and resources while responsibly encouraging maritime connectivity.

The meeting was attended by several heads of state and government of member states of the UNSC, and high-level officials from the UN system and key regional organisations.

The UN Security Council has discussed and passed resolutions on different aspects of maritime security and crime in the past. This, however, is the first time that maritime security was discussed as an exclusive agenda item in such a high-level open debate.

For safe schools, Centre looks to pvt hospitals

SUMI SUKANYA DUTTA @New Delhi

AMID a debate to reopen the schools across India, the Union health ministry has sought the support of private hospitals in vaccinating teachers free of cost under the CSR initiative.

There are about 75 lakh school teachers — in both government and private schools — of which less than 20 % are vaccinated, as per the estimates. For vaccinating them, this newspaper has learnt, private hospitals were urged to seek funding support from MNCs and other companies.

Sources said that a meeting between health ministry officials and representatives of private hospitals took place last week in which the government sought the support of corporates ahead of issuing guidelines on cautious reopening of schools.

"Once the private hospitals start offering this service, this initiative will also be widely publicised to get more teachers to avail the vaccine free at vaccination centres," said a ministry official.

"Following this suggestion, we have already written to some companies such as Amazon to help hospitals across India and are writing to several others," said Girdhar J Gyani, DG, Association of Healthcare Providers of India. "This push will also accelerate vaccinations at smaller hospitals in tier 2 and 3 towns."

In a July 30 circular, the Corporate Affairs ministry had said that funds spent on Covid vaccination for individuals other than employees and their families will be considered as CSR expenditure. In March, it had said that spending on Covid would be considered as a CSR activity.

While some states such as Bihar, MP, UP and Odisha have either opened or are planning to open the schools for secondary and senior secondary level schools on a rotation basis, they are completely shut in most states since the beginning of the pandemic in March, 2020.

Last month, top officials, including ICMR director general Balaram Bhargava and AIIMS-Delhi director Randeep Guleria, had suggested that primary schools can be opened first in districts reporting less than 5 % Covid positivity rates. It was, however, recommended that full vaccination of teachers and all support staff should be ensured before classes commence in offline mode.

Gold sparks sports admission rush

HARPREET BAJWA, NAMITA BAJPAI, ANURAAG SINGH, MUKESH RANJAN @Chandigarh, Lucknow, Bhopal, Ranchi

The athletics training centre in Lucknow's KD Singh Babu Stadium is seeing a sudden jump in admission enquiries, according to local officials.

NASEEM Ahmed is flooded with calls. He is an athletics coach. Neeraj Chopra was under his tutelage at Haryana's Panchkula Stadium. The javelin thrower's gold medal at Tokyo Olympics has sparked a sudden interest in athletics. Parents are calling up Ahmed and asking how to enrol their children at the training centre.

"In the last week, after Neeraj qualified for the final, there have been around 100 requests. It increased after he won gold. This morning, we received around 50 requests from parents. A majority of them are for javelin. Some said they want their children to take up any track and field event. Most of them are from rural areas. There is a sudden surge in enthusiasm for athletics," said Ahmed.

It is the same at Lucknow's KD Singh Babu Stadium which houses an athletics training centre, Surjit Hockey Academy in Jalandhar, MP Women's Hockey Academy in Gwalior, Women's Hockey Academy in Ajmer and Girls Hockey Training Centre in Jharkhand's Simdega. Wrestling akhadas are also reporting a rise in admission enquiries. Even though Indians did not win medals in shooting and archery, these sports are also drawing attention.

"My phone has been ringing continuously. Everyone wants their children to be an athlete, which is a very good sign for Indian athletics," says VR Varun, secretary of Lucknow Athletics Association. Budding athletes reside in the hostels of KD Singh Babu Stadium. Since Saturday when Neeraj claimed gold, there have been numerous calls for information on admission in javelin throw and other track and field events.

Jharkhand is home to Salima Tete, a member of the Indian women's hockey team which finished fourth in Tokyo. Coach Pratima Barwa, who honed her skills in the formative years, is receiving lots of calls from people asking how their daughters can become hockey players. "Since it is the sowing season and most of the children playing hockey belong to rural backgrounds, no fresh admissions are taking place now. Once the sowing season is over, there will be a rush for admissions," said Barwa.

Gwalior's MP Women's Hockey Academy has produced Sushila Chanu, Monika and Reena Khokhar, who were part of the Olympic team. Coach Paramjeet Singh notices a new trend in the enquiries. "Earlier, girls mostly from poor families or families with some sports connection came to us. In the last few days, affluent families from MP and other states approached us. A teacher couple from Punjab, a doctor couple from Indore and a businessman from UP want their daughters to join us."

Vishwajit Shinde, who runs Savarkar Rifle Club in Mumbai's Dadar, is witnessing the same. "There is a big rise. In the last few days, we got about 100 inquiries and 46 registrations. We never saw such numbers in an entire year." Subhas Nair trains archers at Mumbai's Dhanushree Sport. From eight, the number of students under him has gone up to 80 in just a few days.

In urban India, sports mostly means cricket. Thanks to the Olympic success, that seems to be changing. Shivraj Singh of Jaipur is the director of Digital Sales IRA, which has tie-ups with 36 sports companies. They connect youth willing to take up sports to various academies. "I used to fill up forms of cricket academies. Now athletics, football, hockey, weightlifting and wrestling are in demand. It is good that they like sports other than cricket and believe a career can be made."

Army working swiftly to set up Integrated Battle Groups

MAYANK SINGH @ New Delhi

MEETINGS of various arms and services of the Army are taking place at a frenetic pace to give the final touches to the biggest change in the combat formations for making them swift and lethal. "The officials led by the Military Operations met Monday to finalise the formation of the Integrated Battle Groups with officials of every other wing in presence," a defence source said on Monday,

Of the two IBGs in the initial phase, one is coming up under the 9 Corps mandated to operate on western borders with Pakistan. The other is being raised under the 17 Corps, which was raised to operate along the northern borders with China. The aim is to firm them up by September end.

The IBGs will be self-contained fighting formation with the elements of every arm and services mixed together as per the terrain and operational requirements. Each IBG will have a troop strength of around 5,000 — bigger than a Brigade (3,000-3,500) but smaller than a Division (10,000-12,000). These will have a mix of every arm and service like infantry, artillery, armoured, engineers, signals, air defence and others.

In the initial phase, the Army has decided to reconstitute its standing forces into 12 modernised IBGs. The forces reassigned and reconstituted would be smaller but swifter with greater combat thrust.

As per the plan, there will be four IBGs under the nine Corps, five or six under 33 Corps and three under the 17 Corps.

More formations will be approved once the first set is raised as the plan is to do away with the Division Headquarters which function under the Corps and remove one layer from the organisational set-up.

CPI-M caps age limit for central office-bearers

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

WITH a view to get fresh faces, the CPI-M Central Committee has decided to bring in an age ceiling for members of its top decision-making body Central Committee.

While the current age limit is 80, the CC has recommended reducing it to 75 years.

The issue was discussed during the three-day CC meeting which concluded on Sunday. Party's general secretary Sitaram Yechury confirmed this on Monday saying that the decision regarding the age ceiling has been made. "A decision on relieving those completing 75 years of age has been made and the process has been set in motion."

A party leader said the final report will be sent to the party's Congress committee and also to State committees and a concrete proposal will come.

The norm will not be applied to the state units as the state committees will decide to set their own age ceiling. Bengal has adopted an age bar of 75 years for being a state committee member.

Sources said the members also deliberated upon two-way age ceiling. "There can be a retirement age for the members of all bodies, including the politburo. Similarly, no new member above 75 years should be inducted in the decision making units including the politburo," said a party leader.

There might be some exceptions like in the case of important posts like CM or a leader with vast experience, said another leader.

For the politburo members, the age limit is 80. However, the norm is not complied in the case of S Ramachandran Pillai (82), the oldest member. Out of the 17 members in the politburo, 11 are above 70 years. Leaders like Mohammed Salim, Nilotpal Basu and Tapan Sen were inducted into the politburo nearly three years ago and all of them are below 70 years of age.

A party insider said it was during 1985 when many young leaders including Yechury and Prakash Karat were inducted into central committee when they were in their 30s.

SC seeks report from Centre on oxygen allocation within two weeks

NEW DELHI: The Supreme Court asked the Centre to submit within two weeks the action taken report on implementing the suggestions of the court-appointed National Task Force on allocation of oxygen to states, UTs amidst the pandemic.

A bench of Justices D Y Chandrachud and M R Shah recorded that the NTF appointed by the Court has held numerous meetings and submitted its report to the Centre.

"Since the NTF comprises eminent doctors, we would require the Union of India to duly apprise the Court of the steps which were taken to ensure that the recommendations are duly observed at the policy level to enhance preparedness and for the foreseeable future and the present. The Union government shall complete the exercise of preparing the action taken report and placing it on record within two weeks," the bench directed.

"The last order was in June. Now, we want to look towards where we stand should there be a third wave," said Justice Chandrachud. ENS

The plea by a former member of the National technical Advisory Group on Immunisation also sought disclosure of clinical trial and post vaccination data.

'Nothing concrete in CBI's status report in Dhanbad hit-and-run case'

NEW DELHI: The CBI has not submitted anything concrete in its status report with the regard to the probe into the killing of a Jharkhand judge, the SC observed.

The top court directed the CBI to submit weekly reports with the High Court.

A bench headed by Chief Justice of India N V Ramana observed that even though arrests and seizure of vehicles was carried out, nothing with respect to intention or motive behind the crime has been indicated in the report.

At this, Solicitor General replied that whatever development has taken place after the CBI took over has been given in the sealed cover. "Mr Mehta, that is not the issue that we want. We want something concrete. Your people have not indicated anything about the motive or reason," the CJI said.

In response, the Solicitor General said that the persons who were in the vehicle which knocked down Judge Uttam Anand are under custody, and he cannot reveal more as their interrogation is ongoing. ENS

Part of team that lifted Blind Cricket World Cup then, a labourer now

SUDHIR SURYAWANSHI @Mumbai

AT a time when the national leaders are making a beeline for felicitating medal-winning Olympians and showering prizes on them, a cricket World Cup winner continues his struggle for two square meals. Naresh Tumda (29), who was part of the team that won the Blind Cricket World Cup in 2018 by beating Pakistan in Sharjah, is currently making ends meet working as a daily-wage labourer in his hometown Navsari in Gujarat.

Tumda had applied for many government jobs, but to no avail. "I earn ₹250 a day, which is hardly enough to support my poor parents. I urge the government to grant me a job," said Tumda, surrounded by medals, certificates and photographs with cricketers and celebrities in his small house.

After his pleas elicited no response, Tumda became a vegetable seller. However, the income from the gig was not enough. "I can barely make ends meet with my paltry wages. My parents are old; my father cannot work. I am the sole breadwinner for the family. I have been expecting the government to show consideration for the past two years," he said.

> I earn ₹250 a day, which is hardly enough to support my poor parents. I urge the government to grant me a job. I have knocked on many doors but to no avail
>
> Naresh Tumda, Cricketer

Tumda started playing at the age of five. In 2014, he was selected in the Gujarat team, and a call to the national line up followed. In the final of the World Cup, India chased down Pakistan's target of 308 runs, with two wickets to spare.

Reminiscing his playing days, Tumda recalled the euphoria of beating the archrivals in a match that went to the wire. India, who remained unbeaten throughout the tournament, chased down the target of 309 inside 39 overs to win the trophy. Sunil Ramesh (93) and Ajay Reddy (62) top-scored for India. The 2018 victory on followed India's T20 Blind World Cup victory in 2017. Even then, India had defeated Pakistan in the final to successfully defend their title.

Tumda said the team was well-received by the dignitaries and officials upon return from Sharjah. He recalled meeting Union ministers and even President Ram Nath Kovind.

Naresh Tumda is saddled with the responsibility of taking care of five people in his family. He is the sole breadearner and had said that the money from selling vegetables was not enough to cater to the needs of the family. Now, he is in desperate need for an uplift from the government, he added.

Meghalaya drone survey sparks uproar in Assam

Speaker Daimary rejects the Opposition demand to discuss demarcating the border

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Guwahati

THE Opposition in Assam created ruckus in the state Assembly on Monday over the issue of Meghalaya carrying out a drone survey of the sensitive interstate border, which is yet to be fully demarcated.

While the Congress sought to move an adjournment motion for a discussion on the issue in the Assembly, Speaker Biswajit Daimary turned it down. The entire Opposition, including Congress, All India United Democratic Front (AIUDF), CPM and one Independent legislator walked out in protest.

Congress MLA Nurul Huda had raised the issue of drone survey. He said it was done under Kamrup (Metro) district of which Guwahati is the headquarters. Joining him, AIUDF legislator Phani Talkudar alleged the marking was done right in front of his residence.

However, Parliamentary Affairs Minister Pijush Hazarika allayed the fear of encroachment. He said the exercise was carried out with due permission of Kamrup (Metro) district authorities. He said Assam, too, would carry out a similar exercise.

After visiting the interstate border with Mizoram following the July 26 skirmishes, an all-party delegation of the Assembly had submitted a report to the government. The members of the opposition parties on Monday expressed displeasure that the government has not yet responded to it.

They also expressed dissatisfaction that Chief Minister Himanta Biswa Sarma had not informed the House of his discussion with his Meghalaya counterpart Conrad K Sangma on the border dispute.

> The exercise was carried out with due permission of Kamrup (Metro) authorities. Assam, too, would carry out a similar exercise
>
> A Minister

Giving written replies, Hazarika said Assam's land, measuring 1,577.58 hectares, is currently in the illegal possession of Mizoram. This includes 400 hectares in Cachar district, 377.58 hectares in Karimganj district and 800 hectares in Hailakandi district.

He also said the Assam Police and the state's Forest department had cleared 200 hectares of land of encroachment.

However, the Congress members were not amused. They remained adamant on the demand for a statement on the "sensitive issue" of Assam's border disputes with neighbouring states.

Hazarika sought to pacify them by stating that the government was willing to give a statement on the drone survey but they walked out.

Assam was locked in a bloody border clash with Mizoram recently, which left six of its policemen dead.

BJP man, wife gunned down in Anantnag

FAYAZ WANI @Srinagar

A day after Lt Governor Manoj Sinha said militancy would be wiped out from pious land of Jammu and Kashmir, terrorists on Monday shot dead a BJP leader, who was also a sarpanch, and his wife in south Kashmir's Anantnag district. Police has blamed Lashkar terrorists for the killings.

A police official said the terrorists barged inside the rented accommodation of BJP leader and Sarpanch Ghulam Rasool Dar at Lal Chowk area of south Kashmir's Anantnag district around 4 pm. "Terrorists fired indiscriminately on the BJP leader and his wife Jawhara Begum, a panch, present there. Both sustained multiple gunshot wounds and were shifted to nearby hospital, where doctors declared them brought dead," he said.

Dar, who was BJP district president Kisan Morcha, hailed from Redwani village of Kulgam district, also in south Kashmir. He and his wife were very active in Kulgam and were also felicitated by the party leadership.

Immediately after the militant attack, police, CRPF and army men laid siege to the area and launched searches to track down terrorists. However, no arrest was reported till the time of going to press.

IGP Kashmir Vijay Kumar blamed Lashkar-e-Toiba for the attack and said two bike-borne terrorists carried out the attack. Police have suspended the Personal Security Officer (PSO) of the slain BJP leader as he was found absent at the time of the attack. "The PSO will also be questioned," a police officer said.

Asked whether the slain BJP leader and his wife were provided secured accommodation, the police officer said Dar was provided one at Snow cap hotel Kulgam.

The couple, he said, stayed there for a short period but were continuously insisting to stay at their house at Anantnag town and also submitted an undertaking in this regard. "On their request they were allowed to stay at their house in Anantnag and was also provided with one PSO," the official said.

However, BJP spokesman Manzoor Bhat said adequate security was not provided to the slain BJP leader. BJP General Secretary (Org) Ashok Koul said terrorists are now frustrated after witnessing changes in Kashmir. "Those who are responsible would not be spared," he said.

Cache of explosives delivered by drones found

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Chandigarh

THE Punjab Police on Monday foiled a major terror attack attempt ahead of Independence Day after recovering a double-decker tiffin box bomb filled with improvised explosive (IED) along the Indo-Pak border in Amritsar. Police said 2-3 kg IED was packed into the tiffin and could have been delivered on the Indian side through a drone from Pakistan.

A high alert has been sounded in Punjab following the recovery. Besides the tiffin, the police also recovered five hand grenades, 100 rounds of 9 mm pistol ammunition, a switch and a remote control device from Daleke village in Amritsar.

Punjab Director General of Police Dinkar Gupta said that following the inputs on drone activity in the area, a massive combing operation was launched during the intervening night of Saturday and Sunday. During the operation, the police team recovered a bag with the explosives and ammunition packed neatly in soft foam pouches. He said preliminary investigations indicated that the bag was dropped through a drone that crossed the border undetected.

He said that the police teams secured the bag and called a team of National Security Guards (NSG). "The RDX was installed in the tiffin box in a sophisticated manner such that it had three different mechanisms including switch, magnetic and spring controls for operational flexibility with two U-shaped magnets," said Gupta, adding that further investigations were on.

Row over dropping Hindi from mandatory list

RANCHI: Dropping Hindi and Sanskrit from a list of mandatory languages for getting Class III and IV jobs through a Cabinet decision has sparked controversy in Jharkhand. This move by the state government has witnessed a storm of protests over what the BJP called appeasement policy. The Soren Cabinet approved a new appointment policy making knowledge of regional and tribal languages mandatory for government jobs. The mandatory regional and tribal languages are Mundari, Kharia, Ho, Santhali, Khortha, Panchpargania, Bangla, Urdu, Kurmali, Nagpuri, Kurukh and Odia. Urdu has been retained as one of the languages in the 12 language papers while Hindi and Sanskrit have been dropped. BJP veteran and former CM Raghubar Das called the decision unconstitutional.

Demand for caste-based census driven by social concerns, not political, says Nitish

RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR @Patna

BIHAR Chief Minister Nitish Kumar on Monday said there was no politics behind his demand for a nationwide caste-based census and his only aim was to serve the larger interests of the country by getting the headcount done. Nitish's stand on the caste census is causing unease for BJP, which is his partner in Bihar, as the Centre had last month made it clear that it wanted to carry out the census only for the SCs and the STs.

Reiterating caste census has been one of the oldest demands of JD(U), Nitish said: "There is no political angle to the demand. It is completely a social concern. A caste census would benefit all communities." Nitish's statement came during a media interaction after he attended the weekly Junta Ke Darbar Me Mukhyamantri programme.

Expressing hope that Prime Minister Narendra Modi would understand the gravity of the demand, Nitish said he has already sought an appointment with the prime minister to discuss the issue threadbare through his letter that reached the PMO on August 4.

Refuting concerns that the census would benefit only a particular section, Nitish said: "The census would not benefit any particular section, but the society at large. Such an exercise is a must to ensure even development." Kumar insisted, "We must state before the Centre what we think and feel on the issue. It is for the Centre to decide whether to accept our contention or not. The last time a caste census was held was way back in 1931. A fresh exercise will help in bringing the fruits of good governance to the deprived."

Didi targets Shah after attack on nephew's car

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Kolkata

A day after 14 Trinamool Congress arrested in Tripura for violating Covid norms returned to West Bengal, Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee on Monday launched a scathing attack on the BJP-led Central government, alleging the recent attack on her nephew Abhishek Banerjee and other functionaries in the northeast state came at the instigation of Union home minister Amit Shah. The TMC chief said she would not be cowed down by such attacks.

"Such attacks would not have been possible without the Union home minister's active support. The attack came on his instructions. It was carried out in front Tripura police who remained mute spectators. The Tripura chief minister does not have the audacity to order such attacks," said Mamata after meeting the injured TMC workers at the state-run SSKM Hospital in Kolkata.

The Bengal chief minister hit out at the Centre after the car of Abhishek, who is also the national general secretary of the party, was attacked on August 2 in the BJP-ruled Tripura when he was on his way to the Tripurasundari Temple in Gomati district.

Hoping to expand party's base in Tripura ahead of the 2023 Assembly elections, 14 functionaries of the TMC's students and youth wings visited Tripura, where they were allegedly attacked by BJP supporters on August 7. Police arrested the TMC workers on the charges of violating Covid-19 norms. However, all the workers were granted bail by a local court the next day.

"The BJP is running an anarchic government in Tripura, Assam, Uttar Pradesh and wherever they are in power. We condemn the attack on Abhishek and our party workers in Tripura. The injured workers were denied treatment for 32 hours and they were not even given drinking water," alleged Mamata.

She also alleged her nephew's life was in danger as the attack on his car could have been fatal. "The way his car was attacked, his head could have been smashed. Whenever Abhishek boards a flight, BJP books tickets around his seat. Five ruffians are placed in the seats around him. Instructions have been sent to Tripura such that we cannot hire planes and helicopters," she said.

Covid norms relaxed for Independence Day

In order to ensure participation of people in the Independence Day functions, the Lt Governor in J&K has temporarily relaxed the Covid-19 ceiling of 25 people for gatherings on August 15. An order issued by Chief Secretary Dr Arun Kumar Mehta said the ceiling would be relaxed only for August 15, subject to adherence to Covid-appropriate behavior. Despite decline in Covid cases, educational institutions shall continue to remain closed till August 15 while night curfew from 8 pm till 7 am also remains in force. The authorities have lifted weekend curfew from all 20 districts of J&K.

Historic Clock Tower decked up in national flag colours

The historic Clock Tower (Ghanta Ghar) in Lal Chowk has been illuminated in the colours of the national flag for the first time since Independence. The illumination of the Clock Tower was taken up following the directions of the government that tri-colour should be hoisted on all government buildings and installations, including schools, on August 15 to mark the Independence Day. "We have illuminated the Clock Tower at Lal Chowk in colours of the national flag ahead of the Independence Day. New clocks fitted," Srinagar Mayor tweeted. The Lal Chowk is a highly sensitive place in Srinagar, guarded by the police and paramilitary personnel round the clock, with CRPF even constructing bunkers in the vicinity.

Panel to revisit annual performance report

The J&K government has decided to revisit the Annual Performance Report (APR) guidelines notified in 2011. A three-member committee headed by Principal Secretary Home has been formed to revisit the Annual Performance Report guidelines and submit its recommendations keeping in consideration the existing guidelines in the J&K and the Government of India pattern on ACR rules within a month. In 2011, the GAD unveiled new APR guidelines which define procedure for writing up, custody and maintenance of APRs of all the gazetted officers.

Crackdown on wetland encroachers in Kashmir

In order to discourage encroachment of wetlands in Kashmir, the administration has directed officials to immediately cut access to all encroached patches to disallow illegal paddy farming and other plantations. The officials have been directed by Divisional Commissioner Kashmir Pandurang K Pole to expedite anti-encroachments drives in all wetlands in the Valley. The officials were directed not to allow any dumping of garbage at the wetland and complete demarcation of all pending areas, including installation of boundary pillars to prevent illegal encroachments on wetlands.

TALIBAN PRESS ON, TAKE 2 MORE AFGHAN PROVINCIAL CAPITALS

Insurgents' march sparks fears that Kabul government is rapidly losing control of the region

KABUL

THE Taliban took control of two more provincial capitals in Afghanistan on Monday, officials said. Their fall marked the latest development in a week-slong, relentless Taliban offensive as American and NATO forces finalize their pullout from the war-torn country.

The militants have ramped up their push across much of Afghanistan, turning their guns on provincial capitals after taking large swaths of land in the mostly rural countryside. At the same time, they have been waging an assassination campaign targeting senior government officials in the capital, Kabul.

The sweep comes despite condemnations by the international community and warnings from the United Nations that a military victory and takeover by the Taliban would not be recognized. The Taliban have also not heeded appeals to return to the negotiating table and continue long-stalled peace talks with the Afghan government.

Two lawmakers from northern Samangan province — Hayatullah Samangani and Mahboba Rahmat — said the provincial capital of Aybak fell to the Taliban on Monday afternoon without resistance. They said government officials fled to another district.

Provincial council member Mohammad Hashim Sarwari said Taliban fighters earlier had captured three districts of the province before overrunning the capital.

Another provincial lawmaker who is physically in Samangan, Ziauddin Zia, said some government installations were still under government control as security forces resisted Taliban fighters. According to Mohammad Noor Rahmani, the council chief of northern Sar-e Pul province, the Taliban overran the provincial capital after over a week of resistance by the Afghan security forces, after which the city of Sar-e Pul collapsed.

The government forces have now completely withdrawn from the province, he said.

Several pro-government local militia commanders also surrendered to the Taliban without a fight, allowing the insurgents to gain control of the entire province, Rahmani added.

The cities of Aybak and Sar-e Pul join three other provincial capitals now fully under Taliban control: Zaranj, the capital of western Nimroz province, the city of Sheberghan, the capital of northern Zawzjan province, and Taleqan, the capital of another northern province with the same name. AP

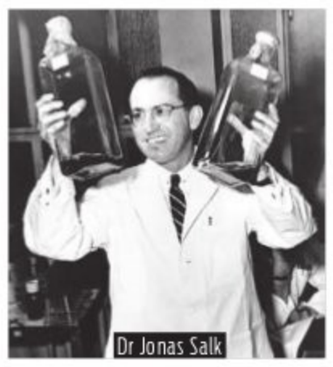
'Could you patent the sun?' How a people's vaccine for polio was born

ARAVINDAKSHAN S

THE world's major pharma companies as well as most high-income countries are against waiving patent protections for coronavirus vaccines, arguing that such a move could undermine medical innovation. But this stance overlooks how the vaccine for polio, another viral disease, was developed and distributed in an overwhelmingly successful effort to control the poliovirus globally.

The start of the 20th century saw the emergence of major polio epidemics. Dr Jonas Salk, a virologist, developed a promising vaccine candidate in 1953 and launched a large trial among 1.83 million kids in the US. The trial was conducted by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, which was founded by the polio-diagnosed US President Franklin D Roosevelt and funded mostly by millions of small-sum donations from the American public.

The polio trial was so popular that a 1954 Gallup poll showed that more Americans knew about the trial than about the then-president's full name, Dwight David Eisenhower, historian David Oshinsky wrote in Polio: An American Story.



Dr Jonas Salk

In 1955, Salk's vaccine was found highly effective against polio. The finding was announced in a televised live broadcast in which iconic TV host Edward Murrow asked Salk about who owned the patent. Salk famously responded: "Well, the people I would say. There is no patent. Could you patent the sun?"

Nevertheless, the National Foundation and the University of Pittsburgh, where the vaccine research was conducted, had sought a patent for the vaccine. It was Salk who buried the idea, Oshinsky wrote, saying that the invention was built on the work of others. His refusal of the patent was also in the name of public interest and the spirit of voluntarism, as the trial was funded by people's donations.

Today, vaccinations have helped stop the transmission of wild polio in all countries except Pakistan and Afghanistan.

The story of the Covid-19 vaccine is not entirely different. Much of the money spent on coronavirus vaccine R&D in the US — including the breakthrough by Barney Graham that led to the creation of at least four major vaccines — is from the federal government. And though the US, Russia and China publicly back vaccine patent waivers, a move initiated by India and South Africa at the World Trade Organization last year, most other rich nations are holding out.

Wildfire in Greece burns for 7th straight day

ATHENS

FIREFIGHTERS and residents battled a massive forest fire on Greece's second largest island for a seventh day on Monday, fighting to save what they can from flames that have decimated vast tracts of pristine forest, destroyed homes and businesses and sent thousands fleeing.

The smoke and ash from the fire on Evia, a rugged island of forests and coves almost touching the Greek mainland, blocked out the sun, turning the sky orange as the blaze rampaged across the northern part of the island.

Evia's fire is the most severe of dozens that have broken out across Greece in the past week, after the country was baked by its worst heat wave in three decades which sent temperatures soaring to 45 degrees Celsius for days.

The heat, coming amid what has already been a particularly hot summer, has turned Greece's forests, including large areas of easily flammable pine trees, into bone-dry tinderboxes.

Other big fires have been burning forests and farmland in the southern Greek region of the Peloponnese, while a major blaze that burned through homes, businesses and forests on the northern fringes of Athens was on the wane.

The wildfires have stretched Greece's firefighting capabilities to the limit, and the government has appealed for help from abroad. More than 20 countries in Europe and the Mideast have responded, sending planes, helicopters, vehicles and manpower.

But many residents and local officials have complained of a lack of firefighters, and some have taken to calling in to Greek television networks to appeal for help, particularly from water-dropping planes and helicopters. "We were completely forsaken. There were no fire brigades, there were no vehicles, nothing!" said David Angelou, who had been on Evia in the seaside village of Pefki and left the island by ferry to the mainland harbor of Arkitsa Sunday night.

"You could feel the enormous heat, there was also a lot of smoke. You could see the sun, a red ball, and then, nothing else around," he said. Greece's Civil Protection chief, Nikos Hardalias, has stressed that firefighters have been doing everything they can. AP

9 dead due to O2 pipe rupture in Russia hosp

Moscow: Nine coronavirus patients died on Monday in Russia's republic of North Ossetia after an oxygen pipe ruptured in a hospital in the capital Vladikavkaz, authorities said. "Nine patients with coronavirus died due to the lack of oxygen at the Republic Clinical Hospital of Vladikavkaz," Russian news agencies said. All nine patients that died were on ventilators, it said.

Brawls over scarce fuel in Lebanon kill three

Beirut: Tensions over scarce fuel supplies in Lebanon descended into deadly violence on Monday, including knives, guns and a hand grenade, that killed three men. Lebanon has faced months of severe fuel shortages that have prompted long lines at gas stations and plunged the small country, dependent on generators for power, into long hours of darkness. The shortages are blamed on smuggling and hoarding.

US slaps fresh sanctions on 'brutal' Lukashenko regime in Belarus

WASHINGTON

THE United States imposed fresh sanctions on Monday on the regime of Belarusian President Alexander Lukashenko, accusing him of carrying out a "brutal" crackdown on opponents.

"One year ago today, the people of Belarus sought to make their voices heard and shape their own future through that most basic expression of democracy — an election," US President Joe Biden said in a statement.

"Rather than respect the clear will of the Belarusian people, the Lukashenko regime perpetrated election fraud, followed by a brutal campaign of repression to stifle dissent," Biden said.

"The actions of the Lukashenko regime are an illegitimate effort to hold on to power at any price," he said.

The US president signed an executive order expanding sanctions which have been in place on the Russian neighbor since 2006, targeting a slew of Belarusian officials, business executives and companies.

The latest sanctions take aim at various sectors of the Belarusian economy, including banking, defense, energy, construction and transportation.

Also targeted was the Belarusian National Olympic Committee, accused of facilitating money laundering, sanctions evasion and failing "to protect Belarusian athletes from political discrimination and repression."

Belarusian sprinter Krystsina Tsimanouskaya sought protection at the Tokyo Olympics to avoid being forced onto a plane home, saying she feared for her life after criticizing her coaches. Tsimanouskaya was granted a humanitarian visa by Poland and she said that she "would like my country to be free." AFP

China's wandering jumbos may be heading home

BEIJING

AN elephant herd that fascinated locals and people around the world by making a year-long journey into urbanised southwest China, raiding farms and even a retirement home for food, appears finally to be headed home.

Local authorities have deployed trucks, workers and drones to monitor the elephants, evacuated roads for them to pass safely and used food to steer them away from populated areas. Despite their entrance into villages and a close approach to the Yunnan provincial capital of Kunming, no animals or humans have been injured.

The 14 Asian elephants of various sizes and ages were guided across the Yuanjiang river in Yunnan on Sunday night and a path is being opened for them to return to the nature reserve where they lived in the Xishuangbanna Dai Autonomous Prefecture.

The elephants left the reserve more than a year ago for unknown reasons and roamed more than 500km north. After reaching the outskirts of Kunming, a center for business and tourism, they turned south again, but still are far from the reserve.

One male that separated from the herd was subsequently tranquilised and returned to the reserve.

Asian elephants are among the most highly protected animals in China and their population has grown to around 300, even while their habitat has shrunk because of expanded farming and urban growth.

As of Sunday night, the herd was still in Yuanjiang County, approximately 200km from the reserve.

However, the National Forestry and Grassland Administration said the animals were in a "suitable habitat" after crossing the river. AP

Telcos may not get more time to pay spectrum fee

Finmin not in favour of more relief; moratorium to end in March '22

ANURADHA SHUKLA & JONATHAN ANANDA
@ New Delhi/Chennai

THE finance ministry is not in favour of giving any extension of the moratorium on spectrum dues to telecom companies due to tight fiscal position.

According to the sources in the finance ministry, many telecom companies, including Vodafone Idea, had requested an extension of the moratorium, however the ministry is reluctant to do so.

"Extension of moratorium on spectrum dues is not feasible. The matter was discussed and the general consensus was against giving any extension. We have been very prudent regarding expenditure and while the government is aware of the (Vodafone India) crisis, this will not be the best way forward. Rest the final decision is yet to happen," a finance ministry official said.

The government had earlier allowed a moratorium on spectrum dues for both FY21 and FY22. The next tranche of ₹15,900 crore of non-AGR spectrum dues becomes payable from April 2022.

Over the past few weeks, the Department of Telecommunications (DoT) has been examining and conducting discussions on a series of possible relief measures for the telecom sector as a whole. These relief measures would help all telcos if granted, but will be especially valuable to the cash-strapped Vodafone Idea in particular.

According to sources, among the measures discussed include reducing the currently 8% telecom licence fee down to 6%-a measure that regulator TRAI had already recommended; extending relaxations on the bank guarantees that telcos have to submit to the DoT for AGR and spectrum payments; and a further extension of the two-year spectrum payments moratorium which ends this financial year.

On June 7, KM Birla had written to the Cabinet Secretary seeking a moratorium on spectrum dues, floor pricing. But nothing happened so far. Now that the Vodafone Idea is on the verge of collapse, the pressure is mounting on the DoT to extend moratorium.The Department of Telecom (DoT) can't allow the extension of the moratorium on its own and it would require a nod from the finance ministry.

Nod to CCI probe on Amazon, Flipkart

BISMAH MALIK @ Bengaluru

THE Competition Commision of India has finally received nod from the Supreme Court to continue its probe into the business models of e-commerce giants Amazon and Flipkart, thus putting an end to the months-long legal tussle between the regulator and the e-tailers.

The apex court while dismissing the petitions filed by the Amazon and Flipkart, on Monday, has given the companies four weeks time to respond to a notice by the CCI. "It is made clear that no further extension of time would be granted for the purpose," the SC said in its order, a copy of which was seen by The New Indian Express. "There is no reason to interfere in the Karnataka High Court order. Large companies like Amazon, Flipkart should in fact be open to such inquiries. These are big organisations, they have to volunteer for inquiry and all. And you want no inquiry?" the Chief Justice of India, Nuthalapathi Venkata Ramana, said during the proceedings.

The e-tailers told The New Indian Express in separate statements that they will cooperate with the CCI investigations. "Amazon has a high bar on compliance and we comply with all applicable laws. We will extend full cooperation to the CCI investigation," an Amazon spokesperson said.

Flipkart said that while the company hasn't received the order yet, it respects the decision of the Supreme Court. "We are in compliance with applicable Indian laws and will cooperate with the investigation," Flipkart said.

The Confederation of All India Traders, whose affiliate , Delhi Vyapar Mahasangh, has petitioned before the CCI termed the SC verdict as a milestone and said that it hasn't given any scope to Amazon, Flipkart to avoid probe.

Narayan Murthy and Amazon's JV to cease ops

Infosys founder Narayan Murthy's family office Catamaran Ventures and Amazon's joint venture Cloudtail will cease its operations from May, 2022. Cloudtail India, which is the largest seller on Amazon marketplace is a wholly-owned subsidiary of Prione Business Services. Catamaran Ventures had increased its stake in the JV from 51% to 76% in 2019 whereas Amazon reduced its stake to 24% from 49% in 2019 to comply with the FDI rules. But high stakes in seller firms and common board of directors had invited criticism.

UPGRADING TO THE BILLION DOLLAR CLUB

- Temasek Holdings, IFC and IIFL participated in the latest funding round
- It is in advanced talks to raise $400 million more funding at a $4-billion valuation

Upgrad the new unicorn worth $1.2 bn, plans to raise $400 million more

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

IT is never a dull moment in the edtech ecosystem of India. After Byju's and Unacademy, Upgrad is the third edtech start-up to become the unicorn, taking the tally of the start-ups which reached a billion dollar valuation to 21 this year.

Upgrad on Monday said that it has raised $185 million at a $1.2 billion valuation. The Mumbai-headquartered firm said that it is in advanced talks to raise $400 million more funding at a $4-billion valuation. It aims at focusing on acquisitions as well as expansion to the overseas markets.

Singapore-based Temasek Holdings, IFC (International Finance Corporation), a sister organization of the World Bank, and member of the World Bank Group), and IIFL participated in the current fundraise.

The latest funding round also marks the first non-promoter funding of the company with serial entrepreneur Ronnie Screwvala owning more than 70% stake in the company after the fresh financing round.

"We are very focussed on our path to being in the top 3-5 companies globally in edtech and serving the 1 billion workforce across the age group of 18 to 60 years. We are pleased with the investor interest ever since we opened up for a fundraise, and had our maiden raise from Temasek, followed by IFC and IIFL in the last 60 days," Screwvala said.

"We will announce further updates on M&As and unlocking value as they unfold. Yes, the last value was at $1.2 billion but as I keep saying, we are not a fan of the tag name unicorn - for us, it is only a means to a much larger goal," he added.

Meanwhile, another edtech platform Vedantu for K-12 students is also reportedly planning to raise $100 million at a $1 billion valuation.

Byju's, which is the largest player in the industry, has so far made seven acquisitions this year worth over $1 billion to consolidate in the sector which has seen a 2x-3x jump in the userbase since the onset of the pandemic and offered low-cost alternatives to learners in the overseas gerographies.

India's edtech market is expected to touch$ 3.5 billion by 2022, a recent report by the Redseer and Omdiyar Network India stated. The report said that across paid and free unique users - in K12 and post K-12 segment have seen an increase, with the user base doubling from 45 million to 90 million.

PNB Housing Finance-Carlyle deal in limbo as SAT delivers split verdict

SESA SEN @ New Delhi

IN an unprecedented turn of events, the Securities Appellate Tribunal (SAT) has given a split verdict in the case of PNB Housing Finance further delaying its ₹4,000-crore fund infusion plan. The tribunal on Monday failed to reach a consensus after a two-judge bench comprising Presiding Officer Justice Tarun Agarwala and Judicial Member Justice MT Joshi gave different observations on the fundraising plan which was opposed by markets regulator Sebi.

Given the lack of concord, SAT's interim order — prohibiting PNB Housing from disclosing the results of shareholder's vote on the proposed deal in its last extraordinary general meeting held on June 22 — will continue to hold.

The proposed ₹4,000-crore stake sale through which private equity fund Carlyle Group is trying to take control of the housing financier has faced resistance from the market regulator after proxy advisory firm Stakeholders Empowerment Services (SES) termed the deal "unfair and abusive" to the mortgage lender's minority shareholders.

Sebi, in a letter to PNB Housing, stated that the transaction should be halted until the company undertakes the valuation of shares by an independent valuer. Sebi sought to stop the voting at the EGM, saying it was necessary for shareholders to get the correct valuation at which investors led by the Carlyle Group would acquire shares and management control.

On June 18, however, PNB Housing challenged the Sebi order. The markets regulator defended its decision saying that a valuation report is mandatory before a company raises capital via preferred allotment of shares to ensure all shareholders are treated equally, especially if such a preferential allotment entails an open offer due to change in ownership. If the deal goes through, Carlyle will become the majority shareholder replacing PNB as the principal promoter of the mortgage lender.

Tata Group looking to enter semi-conductor manufacturing business

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

WITH the whole world, especially automobile industry, facing acute shortage of semi-conductors, Tata Group chairman N Chandrasekaran on Monday said that they are looking to make a foray into semi-conductor manufacturing.

He pegs the market opportunity at over $1 trillion for manufacturing high tech electronics and said that the company has already set up a business to seize the opportunity.

Chandrasekaran's remarks come days after the IT-to-airplane conglomerate had announced its entry into 5G equipment manufacturing and a string of acquisitions to create the Tata Digital business.

Semi-conductors are silicon chips that cater to control and memory functions in products ranging from automobiles, computers to cellphones. Following surge in demand for electronic items during the lockdown, companies are struggling to secure their quota for this miniscule but important component. Tata Group too has been impacted as Tata Motors-controlled Jaguar Land Rover estimates production loss of nearly 100,000 units during April-September due to the chip shortage.

Chandrasekaran explained that alterations to the global supply chains in the aftermath of the pandemic and geopolitical changes, will make businesses shift their reliance on other countries and called this a huge opportunity for India. "At the Tata Group, we have already pivoted into a number of new businesses like electronics manufacturing, 5G network equipment as well as semiconductors, in all probability...On rebalancing supply chains, India can significantly benefit from the geopolitical shifts that we are seeing," he said at IMC Chamber of Commerce and Industry's AGM.

"We have already set up a business to seize the promise of high-tech manufacturing of electronics, precision manufacturing, assembly and testing and semiconductors in the medium term," he added.

LED by demand for passenger vehicles (PV), auto sales in India are inching towards pre-Covid levels. According to data released by dealer association body Fada on Monday, retail auto sales in July 2021 grew by 34% year-on-year to 15,56,777 units on a low base and pent-up demand.

When compared with the pre-Covid month of July 2019, retail auto sales in July 2021 were down by 13%. While in July 2021, each segment witnessed Y-o-Y growth in sales, it was only the PVs and the tractors that managed to clock growth when compared with July 2019 sales. Retail PV sales in July 2021 grew by 63% Y-o-Y to 2,61,744 units and 24% over 2019 sales. The high volume two-wheeler segment also witnessed 28% growth in Y-o-Y sales in July 2021 to 11,32,611 units, but when compared with June 2019, it fell by over 19%.

"Auto Retails have now started narrowing the deficit when compared to pre-Covid months. When compared to July'19, the gap reduces to low double digits of -13%," said FADA President Vinkesh Gulati.

He added, "The 2W segment though continues to see positive demand YoY, the rate of recovery remains sluggish as customers at the bottom of the pyramid suffer with poor disposable income"

On the near-term outlook, Fada expects demand to remain robust in August 2021 but is wary of semi-conductor shortage issue. "The month of August begins on a positive note as demand and enquiry levels continue to improve across all categories. With IMD forecasting a normal monsoon during August- September period, sowing operations will pick up gradually. This will have a rub off effect on rural sales especially in tractor segment," said Fada.

Govt mobilises ₹31,290 cr from Sovereign Gold Bond Scheme

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

THE government has collected ₹31,290 crore from Sovereign Gold Bond (SGB) Scheme since its launch in 2015, Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman informed the Parliament on Monday. "The response of public on the SGB scheme has resulted in the collection of ₹31,290 crore since 2015-16," she said, in reply to a question in Lok Sabha.

The SGB Scheme was notified by the government on November 5, 2015, with the main objective to develop an alternate financial asset and as an alternative to purchasing/ holding of physical gold.

These bonds are issued on payment of Indian rupees and is denominated in grams of gold. Bonds are issued on behalf of the Government of India by RBI, and have a sovereign guarantee.

The bonds are restricted for sale to resident Indian entities. The investment limits are presently 4 kg per fiscal year, for individuals and Hindu Undivided Family (HUF) and 20 kg per fiscal year for trusts and similar entities. The ceiling will be counted on financial year basis and will include the SGBs purchased during the trading in the secondary market.

Meanwhile, the Sovereign Gold Bond Scheme 2021-22 Series V or the fifth tranche opened for subscription from Monday till August 13 with a settlement date of August 17, 2021. The issue price of the bond during the subscription period has been fixed at ₹4,790 per gram.

Debut of 4 IPOs this week; CarTrade, Nuvoco Vistas get lukewarm response

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

AFTER four IPOs hit the Dalal Street on a single day last week, four more are opening for subscription this week. Digital auto classified platform CarTrade and cement manufacturer Nuvoco Vistas Corporation opened their initial public offerings (IPOs) for subscription on Monday while Aptus Value Housing Finance India and Chemplast Sanmar IPO will hit the market on Tuesday. Together, the four are expected to raise over ₹14,800 crore, based on the higher end of the share price band.

Unlike last week when all the four IPOs were fully subscribed on Day 1, this time the response was rather lukewarm. On the first day of the bidding, CarTrade IPO got booked by only 0.41 times while Nuvoco Vistas (NVCL) was subscribed mere 0.16 times, Bombay Stock Exchange data showed.

Most analysts, however, have given subscribe rating to the two IPOs.They beleive that CTT can give a healthy listing gain while NVCL should be held for long term benefits.

"NVCL issue is valued at $146 FY21 EV/tonne and 16.6x EV/EBITDA on post-issue basis, which is at a discount to the industry average given slightly weaker financials. As NVCL has a short history of existence, we believe it has the potential to improve its financials in the long run and come at par with its peers as operating leverage kicks in," said analysts at Motilal Oswal Financial Services.

CarTrade's ₹1,999 crore IPO price band is fixed at ₹1,585-1,618 a share. Housing finance company Aptus Value Housing Finance has fixed the price band at ₹346-353 per share as it looks to ₹2,780.05 crore while Specialty chemicals manufacturer Chemplast Sanmar is planning to raise ₹3,850 crore and has fixed the price band ₹530-541 per share.

To raise up to 14,800 cr

CarTrade and Nuvoco Vistas Corporation opened their IPOs on Monday while Aptus Value Housing Finance India and Chemplast Sanmar will open for subscription on Tuesday.

Together, the four are expected to raise over `14,800 crore

Falling crude: Downward trend likely for fuel prices

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ Chennai

WITH demand concerns rising among oil traders as global cases of the Delta variant of Covid-19 increase, Brent crude prices have declined over 4% to below the $70 per barrel mark on Monday, extending the losses seen last week. As of 9 pm IST, Brent Crude was trading at $68.7 a barrel on the International Commodities Exchange — a 12% fall in just eight days.

The decline is good news for Indian fuel consumers, who have had to shell out over ₹100 per litre for petrol in most states, since oil marketing companies are likely to start effecting fuel price cuts if the declining trend in crude oil prices hold. OMCs determine daily retail fuel prices based on a 15-day rolling average of the international benchmark price for gasoline and diesel.

The global concerns over a rising Delta variant cases, especially in China, is the primary reason for the fall in crude rates, though analysts also note that the dollar has gotten much stronger over the past few weeks.

China on Monday reported 125 new Covid-19 cases, up from 96 a day earlier, while case counts hit daily records in Malaysia and Thailand.

The rising cases have resulted in a reappearance of movement restrictions in China, the second largest consumer of crude oil in the world.

Grand welcome for India's heroes

Chaotic scenes greet athletes outside Delhi airport; sports ministry felicitates medal winners

AYANTAN CHOUDHURY @New Delhi

THE scenes outside the international airport were chaotic. The sound deafening as bands, dholaks and songs pierced through the air. There were scores of people waiting both inside and outside to welcome India's athletes from Tokyo on Monday.

It was a grand yet chaotic reception at the Indira Gandhi International Airport. As soon as the athletes emerged from the gate, supporters and media mobbed the players and gave security personnel nightmares as they struggled to guide the players to their cars.

The crowd slowly started swelling from an hour before the scheduled flight arrival. There was a massive traffic jam in front of the airport. Fans and family from native villages, people with placards, music bands, people with dhols all created a carnival-esque atmosphere but social distancing and wearing masks went for a toss.

The athletics contingent was the first to arrive and they were felicitated by a Sports Authority of India (SAI) delegation headed by DG Sandeep Pradhan, who was accompanied by Athletics Federation of India head Adille Sumariwala. Political leaders from various parties were also not to be left behind as they also arrived to congratulate the medal winners.

The hockey teams and wrestlers were next to disembark and slowly the frenzy reached chaotic levels. All sportspersons were mobbed as soon as they stepped out of the gate. Despite heavy security and barricades, the crowd could not get enough of their new heroes as they pressed forward to touch the players or get a selfie. Social distancing went for a toss.

The men's and women's hockey teams, grapplers, the athletics contingent all were then escorted to Hotel Ashoka, where the Sports Minister Anurag Thakur then went on felicitate the medal winners. The hotel was decked up in bright colours with the Olympic rings present as well. Special meals have been prepared to honour India's sporting heroes post the function.

The Sports Minister not only congratulated all medal winners but also went on to praise the performances of the women's hockey team which finished fourth as well as young golfer Aditi Ashok who narrowly missed out on a medal. Other notable mentions from the minister included those of first female sailor from India to qualify for the Olympics — Nethra Kumanan, first Indian fencer from India to make it to the Olympics — Bhavani Devi, the best place achieved by an Indian in Equestrian eventing, Fouaad Mirza, the best-ever finish for Indian rowers as well as the national and Asian records set by steeplechase exponent Avinash Sable and the men's 4x400 relay team.

The cynosure of all eyes Neeraj Chopra dedicated his gold medal to the country and mentioned the pain he felt the next day after creating history. "I knew I had done something special, actually I thought I had achieved my personal best. The throw had gone really well," Chopra said. "The next day my body felt how special it was with all the pain but it was worth it. This medal is for the entire country," he said.

Truly sports is a great unifier as our athletes come from villages and cities, north to south, from east to west. Their journey is an incredible story of resilience and sporting excellence. The Olympic Games showed us that with self-discipline and dedication we can be champions. Team India excelled and inspired.

Anurag Thakur, Union Sports Minister

Australia all out for 62 in T20 vs B'desh

DHAKA: Shakib Al Hasan took four wickets as Bangladesh skittled out Australia for their lowest ever T20 total of 62 to seal the series 4-1 on Monday. Chasing 123 for victory, the visitors crashed out in 13.4 overs with Shakib returning figures of 4-9 with his left-arm spin in the 60-run rout in Dhaka.

Brief scores: B'desh 122/8 in 20 ovs bt Australia 62 in 13.4 ovs (Shakib 4-9, Saifuddin 3-12).

Badminton: Sr ranking event postponed

NEW DELHI: The Covid-19 pandemic continues to take a toll on the domestic season with the Badminton Association of India (BAI) forced to postpone this month's senior ranking tournaments in Bangalore after local authorities denied the permission to host the events. The first senior tournament was scheduled to be held from August 27 to September 3.

India football team to camp in Kolkata

KOLKATA: The national football team's camp will be held in Kolkata after 15 years when initial 23 probables assemble at the 'City of Joy' on August 15 to prepare for next month's international friendlies. The training sessions will start from August 16, the AIFF said in a statement. The camp will be conducted under a secured bio-bubble adhering to the laid-down health parameters.

Yakin named new Switzerland coach

GENEVA: Murat Yakin was appointed Monday as the new boss of the Swiss national football team, with an eye on greater success after their impressive run to the Euro 2020 quarterfinals. Yakin, 46, takes over from Vladimir Petkovic, who stepped down after seven years in charge of the "Nati" to take over at French Ligue 1 team Bordeaux. Yakin played 49 times for Switzerland.

Weightlifting nationals to begin at NIS Patiala today

FIROZ MIRZA @ Chennai

OLYMPICS is just over but for national weightlifters it's time to test their mettle. However, Tokyo 2020 silver medallist Mirabai Chanu will not be there. Country's top weightlifters will vie for national titles at NIS Patiala at the 73rd Men and 36th Women Senior National Weightlifting Championships starting Tuesday. Lifters from all the affiliated units including the Railway Sports Promotion Board and Services Sports Control Board have reached the venue for the four-day event. Given the protocols in place due to the existing Covid-19 pandemic, spectators' entry has been banned for the event.

"The RSPB team comprising 10 wrestlers each in men's and women's categories is at NIS Patiala. Olympic medallist Mirabai Chanu will not represent us this time. Instead, Pooja Gupta from Lucknow will take part in 49kg for Railways," Sunil Kumar, RSPB coach told this daily.

All the weightlifters, team officials and technical officials have been asked to carry RT-PCR Covid-19 negative test reports within 72 hours prior to their arrival at the venue. "We are prepared to retain the crown in women's category while expect a tough competition from SSCB in men's section," added Kumar.

RSPB won both men's and women's titles in the 2020 nationals held in Kolkata. Services finished runners-up in men's category while Maharashtra took second place in the women's section. Former world champion Mirabai and 2018 Youth Olympic champion Jeremy Lalrinnunga had won the best senior women's lifter and the best senior men's lifter trophies respectively at the previous nationals.

Jeremy will hope to defend his title when he competes in the 67kg weight division. However, a knee injury may make it tough for him to give his best.

"I could start proper training only four weeks ago. I hope I can give my best and this knee injury doesn't trouble me during the event," Jeremy, who competes for SSCB, told this daily. He sustained the injury during the 2020 Asian Championships held in Uzbekistan in April this year. The injury seemingly affected his performance in the Junior Worlds, where he failed to secure crucial ranking points thus falling behind his South Korean competitor to miss out on the continental quota for the 2020 Games.

A circular issued by the Indian Weightlifting Federation (IWLF) also says that 57th Men and 33rd Women Junior National Championships and 16th Youth (Sub-Junior Boys and Girls) National Championships will also be held simultaneously at the same venue. The event was earlier scheduled to be held in Nagercoil, Tamil Nadu in March this year but was indefinitely postponed due to the fresh surge in Covid cases in the state.

Tactical headache awaits Messi, PSG

ASSOCIATED PRESS @Paris

IF LIONEL Messi does become the latest star to help Paris Saint-Germain's quest to win the elusive Champions League, coach Mauricio Pochettino must work out the best way to accommodate him in a top-heavy attack.

Messi bid a tearful farewell to Barcelona on Sunday. At the same time, PSG was in talks with his team trying to finalize a deal to sign him amid reports Messi had flown to Paris on Sunday for a meeting.

Talk of Messi's imminent arrival led several hundred PSG fans to wait outside Le Bourget airport, to the north of Paris, which is often used by PSG and the national team.

Messi would become the biggest star to arrive at Parc des Princes since cash-rich Qatari owners QSI took over the club 10 years ago.

But where is Pochettino, a fellow Argentine, going to play him in attack which includes Neymar, France's World Cup star Kylian Mbappe, Copa America match-winner Angel Di Maria and sharpshooter Mauro Icardi?

Mbappe cost 180 million euros ($212 million) and netted a career-high 42 goals last season. The club paid 50 million euros ($59 million) for Icardi. He showed his finishing skills on Saturday night in PSG's league-opener — a 2-1 win at Troyes — and has 34 goals in 64 games for PSG.

Icardi looks certain to fall behind in the pecking order and could even be sold or loaned to take some weight off the club's huge wage bill.

PATAUDI TROPHY

Team management told an opportunity may come even in middle-order: Rahul

VENKATA KRISHNA B @Chennai

AFTER news filtered through that Shubman Gill would miss the Test series against England, Prithvi Shaw became the preferred choice of the team management. Both Mayank Agarwal and the untested Abhimanyu Easwaran, a reserve opener then, were also around. One name conspicuous by its absence was KL Rahul.

In the lead up to the Test series and even during the lone practice game against a County Select XI, Rahul was seen as an option for the middle-order. That he scored a century in this adopted role offered the team a reliable option, should the middle-order fail once again. For all the talk of an axe hanging over Cheteshwar Pujara, the team management still retains faith in him. They value the deliveries that the No 3 eats up as it only makes the job a bit easier for batsmen on challenging conditions.

Had Hanuma Vihari, who turned out for Warwickshire in three County matches ahead of the World Test Championship final, had shown some sort of form, India may not be sweating too much about the middle-order. But one Test into the five-match series, they are still far from convinced, especially how the middle-order crumbled during overcast conditions. While Pujara retains the backing, it is hard to say where Ajinkya Rahane stands. The stand-in captain, who led India admiringly to a Test series win in Australia with a depleted squad, hasn't had a great time with the bat. This is why Rahul was seen as a middle-order option. That he could be banked the counter the second new ball was a plus.

Which is why they even sent an SOS to Shaw. Should the middle-order continue its dry run, it won't come as a surprise if the 21-year-old walks alongside Rohit Sharma as opener in the third Test at Headingley with Rahul finding a spot in the middle-order. Even though Rahul looked every bit the part as an opener in Nottingham — more than the runs, the patience he showed to wear down the pacers was commendable — that he has been told by the team management to be prepared for any role with the bat suggests India may change their 'template' when it comes to the batting line-up.

KL Rahul

"When you play at this level, you need to be prepared for whatever opportunity that is thrown at you. And that is how I prepared and the team management also was of the same opinion that an opportunity may come at the top or in the middle-order. So I tried to keep it simple and tried to prepare in a way where I can open or play in the middle-order. That's been the talk. And I have had to keep changing my roles in the last two-three years (in limited-oves). So it is not new, and it doesn't surprise me anymore. I quite enjoy it and look forward to fulfilling the role. It gives me so much confidence that the team management believes so much in me and back me to deliver," Rahul said after the first Test.

Although Rahul gives an option in the middle-order for the team management, if Rahane doesn't find form at Lord's, there is no guarantee that Shaw can give the sort of start that the former provided at the top. Since being dropped from the Test side, Shaw hasn't played any red-ball cricket. And in Sri Lanka, a couple of his dismissals against the seaming ball showed he is still a work in progress. In that sense, the second Test will be more of a litmus test for the middle-order, especially for Rahane, who has been missing the consistency one expects from batsmen of his calibre.

Injured Aguero out for around 10 weeks

In more bad news for Barcelona after the departure of Lionel Messi, the club said Monday that new striker Sergio Aguero will not debut with the club until mid-October because of a calf injury. Barca said medical tests showed that Aguero has a tendon injury in his right calf and will be sidelined for about 10 weeks.

TOKYO LIFT

Under intense scrutiny in times of pandemic, Olympics witnessed some gripping narratives which could potentially instil fresh hope in the days to come

SWAROOP SWAMINATHAN
@Chennai

"Arigato".
Thank you.
That was the message from the organisers as the Closing Ceremony wound to a close at the National Stadium in Tokyo on Sunday. It officially signalled the end of the 32nd Summer Games. It was an Olympics fraught with immense danger because of Covid-19. To conduct one of the world's showpiece events, not just in sports but in any field, even as the pandemic raged in the city takes immense guts. That they delivered without the bubble breaking (yes, there have been several cases of positive tests but not one of them compromised the bubble) is of credit to the local organising committee, who will probably sleep peacefully and in their own beds for the first time this week in over one-and-a-half years.

Too many people looked to sport to derive hope in a world where none really existed in the last 18 months. Whole families died, cities became graveyards, doctors became overwhelmed and politicians began crying on camera to make people understand the severity of Covid-19. In that sense, the Olympics has again reestablished the central idea of the Olympic Movement: dream your wildest dreams and hope for the unthinkable.

The stories behind two of the gold won on the opening two day is reflective of this. Iran's Javad Foroughi, who won the men's 10m air pistol gold, likes to call himself a soldier of his country. Iran, as you may remember, was one of the first Asian countries to feel the effects of the coronavirus. Even as it put healthy people in hospital, Foroughi tended to those who became sick. His day job is a hospital nurse. He himself tested positive for Covid-19 before recovering. A year later, he gave Iran its first ever gold in this event.

If Foroughi's gold is an inspiration to every established athlete to never give up, Anna Kiesenhofer's track cycling gold is a reminder that, even in 2021 when elite sport is essentially advanced nutrition, sports science and harnessing of talent, this Austrian Ph.D in Mathematics, who is a DIY cyclist with no real strategy, raced away from the peloton to win gold. It will surely go down in Olympic lore.

Tokyo 2021 wasn't just about the likes of Kiesenhofer and Foroughi, athletes separated by profession but united by ambition. It was also about athletes who informed the world that it's okay to take a step back when you are not feeling right. The message, perhaps read by more than a billion people at some point in the last week, by Simone Biles will ultimately go down as the one defining legacy of the Games. "Forget the unreal expectations and take sometime out if you are not feeling okay". The US gymnast was expected to be the story of the Games and, at some level, she really was the story of the Games. Props also to Naomi Osaka who lit the flame to signal the start of the Games. And Rui Hachimura who carried the Japanese flag at the Opening Ceremony. It's not easy being a mixed race person — they are pejoratively referred to as 'hafu' in Japan — but both of them are responsible in this fight towards a better, more inclusive Japanese society.

It wasn't just Osaka and Biles who scored major points for women. Women, unlike most previous editions, were expected to be the story and they lived up to billing. Be it 13-year-old Rayssa Leal, who in 2015, went viral on social media thanks to her skills with a skateboard. Six years later, she won silver in the women's skateboarding event. Or Sifan Hassan, who moved to Netherlands as a refugee. At 15, she was living with other asylum seekers. At 28, she won gold in the 5000 and 10000 and a bronze in the 1500. In all, she approximately ran about 25 kms of the Tokyo track in blistering heat and unforgiving humidity to achieve something no athlete has ever done before.

Staying on track and field, Allyson Felix did what she does. Win. In what was her final Olympic race, she took gold to leave the stage with 11 medals. She will now walk into history as the greatest track athlete US has ever seen. It's a list that includes Carl Lewis. On the pool, the Katie Ledecky vs Ariarne Titmus rivalry captivated during the first week.

Women were at the forefront for India, too. On the opening day, Mirabai Chanu literally lifted four times her body weight to give the country a timely boost with her silver. Lovlina Borgohain in boxing, PV Sindhu in badminton as well the women's hockey team and Aditi Ashok showed that the sky is the limit. Elsewhere, the likes of CA Bhawani Devi broke barriers.

Speaking of breaking barriers, no Indian athlete broke more barriers than Neeraj Chopra. On the penultimate day of competition, the javelin ace literally threw a spear through history. India's first track and first medallist announced himself to the wider sporting fraternity in some style.

That is why this will be a memorable Games for India. And the world too. Nobody really had any lofty expectations. In fact, a few were waiting for the bubble to burst so that they could say 'told you so'. Instead, Japan quietly put together a Games that will be remembered for world records, Olympic records and stories of rivalries and survival. For that and much more, the sporting world should be the ones telling them 'thank you'.

Or 'Arigato'.

SOME NOTABLE PERFORMANCES

CAELEB DRESSEL

The 24-year-old racked up five gold medals — one for every race he had a chance in — to claim top place in swimming. Only four other swimmers had captured five golds at a single Olympics. Michael Phelps did it thrice.

Elaine Thompson-Herah

The 29-year-old Jamaican star sprinter finished her 200m sweep in 21.53 seconds, the second-fastest time in history. In the 100m, Thompson-Herah finished in 10.61, which was good for the Olympic record but not Florence Delorez Griffith Joyner's overall mark of 10.49.

Ariarne Titmus

Ariarne Titmus, the ice-cold Tasmanian known as the Terminator, won gold medals in the 200-metre freestyle as well as the 400 metres. Only 20 years old, Titmus also took the silver in 800-metre freestyle, behind Kathleen Ledecky.

Karsten Warholm

Norwegian hurdler Karsten Warholm won the gold medal in what might have been one of the best races ever run, smashing his own world record in a time of 45.94 seconds. The man who finished behind Warholm, Rai Benjamin, ran more than half a second faster than any other hurdler in history: 46.17.

STARS

The Tokyo Olympics crowned a number of new champions who announced themselves on the world stage. Here are some of the breakout stars...

TATJANA SCHOENMAKER

Tatjana Schoenmaker announced herself on the Olympic stage in style when she smashed the women's 200m breaststroke world record to claim South Africa's first gold in the pool since 1996. The 24-year-old had already won silver in the 100m.

MOMIJI NISHIYA

Japanese 13-year-old Momiji Nishiya captured hearts when she won the first Olympic women's skateboarding street gold — beating an even younger rival into second place. Nishiya became one of the youngest individual gold medallists in Olympic history when her stunning sequence of tricks put her ahead of Brazil's Rayssa Leal — 127 days her junior.

LAMONT MARCELL JACOBS

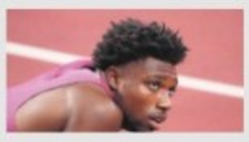
Italy's Jacobs produced arguably the shock result of the Olympics — and one of the biggest shocks in Olympic history — when he claimed victory in the 100m, storming out of athletics obscurity to take gold in a time of 9.80sec. The 26-year-old also helped Italy win a 4x100m relay gold.

ATHING MU: Mu, 19, announced her arrival on the biggest stage of all with a spectacular victory in the 800m, becoming the first American winner of the event since 1968 with an assured wire-to-wire performance to take gold. Mu is expected to add the 400m to her repertoire before Paris Games.

DAIKI HASHIMOTO: The absence of 2012 and 2016 champion Kohei Uchimura — plagued by shoulder problems — cast a long shadow over the men's all-around gymnastics competition. But 19-year-old Japanese Daiki Hashimoto more than filled his compatriot's sizeable shoes, becoming the youngest-ever champion.

MISSES

Tokyo wasn't a great Olympics for some of the big names who failed to live up to their billing. Here are a few of the stars who didn't shine on sport's biggest stage...



NOAH LYLES

The US sprinter arrived in Japan heavily favoured to add an Olympic gold medal to his 2019 World Championship 200m crown. But the 24-year-old struggled to rediscover his best form during the 200m, narrowly avoiding a shock elimination in the semifinals before being defeated by Canada's Andre de Grasse in the final.

NOVAK DJOKOVIC

With the Australian Open, Roland Garros and Wimbledon titles already in the bag, Djokovic came up short in his quest to become the first man to win a Golden Slam — all four Majors and Olympic gold in the same year. Djokovic powered into the semifinals and led Alexander Zverev by a set and a break before collapsing. He then self-destructed in a racquet-smashing bronze-medal defeat to Pablo Carreno Busta.

TRAYVON BROMELL: Lyles' teammate Bromell was the favourite in the 100m heading into the Games after clocked the fastest time in the world this year with a blistering 9.77sec at a meeting in Florida in July. But the 26-year-old looked off the pace from the outset in Tokyo, finishing fourth in his opening heat with a sluggish 10.05sec before being eliminated in the semifinals after only managing 10.00.

NAOMI OSAKA: Osaka lit the Olympic cauldron to mark the opening of the Games but bid for glory failed to ignite on her return to tennis after a break for mental health reasons. She crashed out in the third round after losing in straight sets to eventual silver medallist Marketa Vondrousova, saying the pressure of trying to win Japan's first tennis gold on her Olympic debut was "a bit much".

KENTO MOMOTA: Hometown expectations weighed heavily on badminton star Momota, a two-time world champion who entered the Tokyo Games as top seed. The 26-year-old crashed out in the first round to an unseeded opponent. Swim star Daiya Seto hoped to defend his 400m and 200m medley titles in Tokyo but failed to make the final in the former and finished fourth in the latter.

A LEGEND

Tributes pour in for state's football great

ENS @ Bengaluru

FORMER India and Karnataka footballer Krishnaji Rao took his last breath at the age of 81 on Sunday. He is regarded as one of the best from the state. On Monday, officials from Karnataka State Football Association, Bangalore District Football Association, and former players visited his residence in city to pay their last respects.

Krishnaji, who made his international debut in 1966 Asian Games, played an integral role in helping the erstwhile Mysuru clinch back-to-back Santhosh Trophy titles in 1668 and 1969. Known for his versatility, he could play in different positions from midfield to defence.

"As far as Karnataka is concerned, he has been one of the best players from the state. Also, he was a gentleman, through and through. He used to be very encouraging on the field all the times. He was a good leader. More importantly, he was a very tough player on the pitch and would make life difficult for opponents," said former player, MS Krishnamurthy, who was part of the Santosh Trophy winning team in 1969.

His contribution is not only limited to his playing days. Rao has played an important role in shaping the careers of some the well-known players from the state, including Shanmugam Venkatesh, who featured for top clubs and also captained the national team.

"He was a leader. I still try to follow him in my coaching career. His discipline, respect and how to handle the team," said Venkatesh, who is head coach of AIFF development team Indian Arrows. "Everything I am today, the credit goes to Krishnaji sir..he was the coach of ITI and gave me a chance to play (in 95-96). That time I had not played anything. But he knew, he had the confidence and the eye to see which player had it in him to play at a high level. That was the turning point in my career."

BFC announce AFC Cup playoff squad

ENS @ Bengaluru

BENGALURU FC announced their 29-man squad for the 2021 AFC Cup playoff against Maldivian side Club Eagles, scheduled to be played on August 15. Sunil Chhetri will lead the side, which includes as many as seven new signings. Defenders Alan Costa, Yrondu Musavu-King and Brazilian striker Cleiton Silva make up the Blues' foreign contingent, which also features six new Indian signings.

However, the squad list does not include Australian Erik Paartalu. Last month, in a statement issued by Professional Footballers Australia – a body that represents the interests of Australian football players – claimed that the Blues had been denying him a chance to train.

Seeds have it easy at AITA U-12 tourney

All the seeded players registered easy first round victories to reach the pre-quarterfinals of the KSLTA AITA Talent Series-3 U-12 tennis at the KSLTA on Monday. Ruhan Komandur, the top seed in the boys category overcame Shreyank Manjunath 8-6 while Aahida Singh seeded No.1 beat Tamil Nadu's Banu Gnana Aswin 8-6 in the girls category.

Kruthik shines with ton in Jawahar (1) win

Jawahar Sports Club (1) beat Jawans Cricket Club by 161 runs in the KSCA Group I – II Division League Tournament for Sri M.A.T Acharya Shield 2021 - 22. Kruthik Krishna played a big hand in the win as he scored 150 runs to help his team score 326 for 9 in 50 overs. Jawans in reply were all out for 165 runs with K C Cariappa scalping three wickets.

CALL OF BEAUTY

Eyebrow lifts, hair transplants, chin fillers...cosmetologists in the city are inundated with enquiries from young Bengalureans who have embraced self-care during the pandemic

Vitamin C peel treatments are easier, cost-effective, and done in a sterile environment

OVER the last few months, Husna Sait, a city-based fashion designer found herself reeling under depression, the effects of which showed on her skin-baggy eyes, dark circles, droopy eyelids and wrinkles. After contemplating her situation, Sait decided to "uplift herself" with a global eyecon treatment. After eight sessions spread out for 30 minutes each, today, Sait oozes with body confidence.

Since last year, people have been staring at themselves giving ample time to wonder "Is my nose crooked?" "Do I have a double chin?" "Are my lips too thin?" It's no surprise then that cosmetologists in Bengaluru are inundated with enquiries about hair transplants, body shaping and sculpting, nose, lips, chin fillers, lifts, and anti-aging treatments. Suprisingly, queries have gone up three times. "Many youngsters are opting for treatments which are non-surgical but give them the tweak they are looking for. Those between the ages of 18 and 27 are going in for eyebrow lifts. And people opting for hair transplant have tripled," says Dr Chytra V Anand, CEO and Consultant Cosmetic Dermatologist Kosmoderma Clinics. "We've also been a bit surprised because we weren't sure whether people would be up for all of this owing to the pandemic. But the growing numbers show otherwise," Dr Anand adds.

Concurring with her is Dr Akber Aimer, director of aesthetic medicine at Maya Medi Spa. "There's been a steady flow of patients coming in for the last couple of months. We saw a 25 per cent increase in people for these services since last year. I've never seen this kind of crowd previously. Spending a lot of time at home has made people conscious," says Dr Aimer, who has been catering to facelifts, hair treatments, and laser hair removal treatments.

Considering the pandemic and the work-from-home option, many working professionals have much time on hand, including some time to stay indoors away from the sun, a requirement for some of the treatments. HR professional Apoorva D Munikrishna opted for a cosmelan treatment recently to reduce the dark spots on the face. For Munikrishna, the lockdown came as a blessing in disguise. "There was always a bit of peeling and redness every day. I didn't want to go out and show my face in that condition."

With fears looming large around visits to the salon, Vitamin C peels and photo facials performed by medical professionals are gaining popularity. "They are easier, cost-effective, and done in a sterile environment," says Sheetal Dorby, a software engineer and blogger, who recently underwent Vitamin C peel treatment. Social media influencer Namrata Kumari wanted to get rid of her blackheads and opted for a fairness and pigment treatment. "I chose a long-term facial that willl last for more than four months. I can now save on those salon visits."

As he bids goodbye to India, Israel's Dy Consul General to South India recollects his moments in a place he's come to call home

VIDYA IYENGAR

WHEN Ariel Seidman moved to India in 2018, his only point of reference was Bollywood movies which are how he assumed his experience would be. But three years on as Israel's Deputy Consul General to South India packs his bags to move countries – to Thailand – for his next posting, Seidman looks back, amused, at what he had imagined and the contrasting reality. Standing in a queue at CTR for over 30 minutes for 'bisi bisi dosae', spending evenings at Bengaluru's microbreweries, going to Nandi Hills or Cubbon Park...Seidman has come to enjoy the sights and sounds he once found overwhelming. "It was way off from the Bollywood impression. Everything's overwhelming---sights, sounds, food, or experiences. Too sweet, too sour, too loud...but I've come to enjoy that. In fact, when I used to go back home, I found everything too quiet or too dull. I even found our food too bland," says Seidman, who is relocating for the post of Deputy Ambassador in Bangkok.

Having joined the ministry in 2018, the posting in Bengaluru was his first, an exposure he and his family savour. "My kids would never have gotten this opportunity. I was considering extending the stay here but with schools being shut, that discussion was taken off the table," Seidman, who has been learning to speak Thai over the last few months. He admits that he adjusted much faster in Bengaluru than he expected. "Of course there are times when things are frustrating. But the relaxed atmosphere and not doing everything under pressure is something you learn to accept which helps you just enjoy life a lot more," he says.

There were some stressful times especially after the pandemic. During the first wave, Sideman found himself on his own in the city for 4.5 months with his family stuck in Israel. "It wasn't possible for me to visit either. When I went back home in April this year, it had been more than two years since I visited my parents and other family members," says Seidman, who kept himself busy with numerous activities, including gymming and running.

A new role and a new place awaits Seidman and he is preparing for the change."It's going to be a different role where I'll have to learn a lot of new things. Here, it was a consulate with a lot of work in the political, economic, and cultural sphere being done in Delhi," he says.

So used to the local culture is his family and he that he knows he will continue to make dosaes for his daughters. "They only eat dosaes for breakfast. So, we'll have to continue making them in Bangkok," he says. As he prepares to leave a place that he and his family love so much, Seidman says, "That's the life of a diplomat."

Live screening of matches, a museum for Messi, and sharing his story; Barcelona fans in the city are gearing up for many activities following his exit from the club

SANATH PRASAD

THE first half of 2021 witnessed some historic and exciting sporting events. Right from Euro 2020 to Tokyo Olympics 2020, sports enthusiasts have had a busy year so far. However, an emotional meltdown swept the sporting world, especially among the football fans, following the exit of football legend Lionel Messi from the Barcelona football club. The 'abrupt' and 'unjust' ending of a 21-year-old relationship with the club, spelt anger, despair and shock among Messi fans across the globe. Bengaluru fans were no different to the heart-breaking news.

As they recall Messi's initial days with the club and his significant contribution to Barcelona, football fans in the city are engaged in a range of talking points on social media--from opening a fan club in his name to live screening of Barcelona matches, and giving 'La Pulga', a dignified farewell.

Nisarg Vashist, a Barcelona fan, pins the blame on the ex-president of the Barcelona club-Josep Maria Bartomeu. "Messi's exit is just because of the corrupt ex-management officials. We were expecting the club to save him, but we were enraged after it failed to retain him. I had plans of travelling to Barcelona and getting a glimpse of his play. Unfortunately, we cannot see him anytime in the Barcelona jersey," says Vashist.

However, Vashist along with other Messi fans are coming together to pay their tribute to the legendary football player soon. "We have plans to collaborate with the Pune Barcelona fan club and pay a fitting tribute. I think live streaming Barcelona matches in a pub, playing his documentaries and taking the fans back to some of his best moments at Barcelona, are some of the things I have in mind. If all things go well, we can also set up a museum dedicated to Messi in Bengaluru," says Vashist.

Another disappointed fan, Nikhil Reddy, underwent an emotional moment after hearing Messi's exit from Barcelona. "After hearing the news, I was shocked and it will take at least a month to accept the reality. Seeing him in a different jersey and a different number will be difficult to accept. However, we want to establish an official fan club and start a C division team in his name under the Karnataka State Football Association," says Reddy who is also a football player. Junaid Ahmed, an IT professional and a football player, who started playing the game after watching the legend, is filled with mixed emotions. Though, he's devastated with Messi's exit, he's also looking forward to see him play for a new club.

"I am playing football because of him. A lot of people think being short in height is a disadvantage. But Messi proved them wrong. As a Messi fan, I want to create awareness and inspire people with stories of his outstanding performances, grit, hard work, talent and discipline," says Ahmed.

MASALA FRENCH TOAST

INGREDIENTS

- Eggs: 2
- Onion: 1
- Tomato: 1
- Chilli: 1, finely chopped
- Chilli powder: ½ tbsp
- Black pepper powder: ½ tsp
- Chopped coriander
- Salt as required
- Bread

METHOD

- Beat the eggs in a bowl and add salt, chilli powder, and black pepper powder to it.
- Add the chopped onion, tomato, chilli, and coriander leaves to the batter.
- Cut the bread in half and dip the pieces in the mixture.
- Now, heat a pan and add oil to it. Place the dipped pieces of bread to the oil and shallow fry for 1-2 minutes.
- Flip the bread pieces when the texture looks golden-brown.

PARIGHASANA

(BEAM OR CROSS-BAR POSE)

In Sanskrit, 'parigha' means cross-bar and 'asana' means pose. It's also known as Gate Latch Pose. It is one of the excellent yoga postures for beginners. This pose stretches the sides, spine and hamstrings. It is also known to open the shoulders and stimulate a number of the body's abdominal organs. It is a good entry point into pranayama breathing exercises and meditation. This asana also helps to open up the Muladhara (root), Manipura (solar plexus) and Anahata (heart) chakras. Energizing these chakras increases the practitioner's sense of groundedness, stability, emotional wellness, openness, self-acceptance and love.

STEPS

- Kneel down; ankles together, toes flat and the trunk upright. Stretch the right leg sideways, keeping it in line with the trunk and left knee.
- Rest the sole of the right foot on the floor. Inhale, raise the arms sideways at shoulder level. Exhale, move the trunk and right arm towards the extended leg.
- Rest the right forearm and wrist on the shin and ankle respectively; palm facing up.
- Right ear should rest on the right upper arm. Move the left arm over the head and place the left palm on top of the right palm. The left ear will touch the left upper arm.
- Face forward. This is the final position. Breathe normally. Remain in this pose for as long as it is comfortable.
- Come back to the upright position. Bend the right leg and kneel on the floor, come to starting position keeping the ankles together.
- Repeat the pose on the other side and hold the final position for an equal length of time.

BENEFITS

- Delivers oxygen to the parts that usually don't receive much.
- Nourishes abdominal organs.
- Cleans the circulatory system.
- Stimulates the lungs and stretches muscles in the torso.
- Helps to build confidence.
- Increases flexibility of the spine.
- Avoids problems related to waist.
- If you sit for long hours, then this pose is a boon for you.

LIMITATIONS

- People who have serious knee injury and kneeling problems avoid this.
- Those suffering from back, neck pain and chronic knee injury or inflammation should avoid this.
- If you have stomach ulcer problems or ave undergone any kind of operation, avoid this.

Baggy trousers with long boyfriend tees... Celebs love this new on-the-go fashion trend, which is all about light, airy and breathable outfits

SLAYING THAT OTG LOOK

Maya Nelluri

SHREYA VERONICA

HOW easy would life be if we could go everywhere – the gym, the mall, the office or even a house party – in one outfit. No need to change into something dressy, just be easy. That's exactly what the latest fashion trend on social media is all about -- OTG fashion or on-the-go fashion.

Celebs seem to love the trend, with tennis star Sania Mirza posting a reel over the weekend of she working out in a pair of grey leggings and yellow t-shirt. The trend is all about light, airy and breathable outfits -- baggy trousers with long boyfriend tees is one of the popular pair-ups. Match these with the perfect footwear and accessories, and you are good to go.

Designers and fashion influencers tell us all about OTG fashion and how to nail the look. Shravya Varma, a designer and stylist, says different people have different definitions of fashion.

"For me, if I'm getting out of the house, going to work and from there, maybe, heading out for some recreation or meet-up, I would be dressed in something more comfortable. Something from which I can add or remove to suit the different times of the day. This is what is on the go fashion. This is pretty much how every girl in their 20s is. They have an extra jacket or an extra pair of heels in their car or bag, and they just have a plus or minus existing look. It could be for a party, movie or going out with friends," she says.

Shravya Varma

Varma thinks that OTG fashion is the need of the hour, keeping in mind the fast life we lead today. "It is sustainable as you are not wearing too many outfits in one day. It has become a lifestyle, no matter which walk of life you come from," she says, adding that this is something that has been branded OTG recently. Most of us have been doing this since our childhood, she says.

The stylist also has a few tips on how to go about the trend. If you're wearing a kurta dress, pair it with something that is instantly appealing – like a pair of heels, a bright jacket which changes the mood. "I try to keep it to a minimum. Wear a bright lipstick and brush your hair."

Sharon Aishwarya, a fashion influencer, always makes sure that she is up to the mark when it comes to OTG fashion. Trying out different outfits and slaying every look, she says, "I believe in wearing something comfortable and all the clothes that I wear can be called OTG. It just fits every place I visit. I do not take too much time to decide on what to wear, but I try to keep it simple, yet classy, which helps me slay my looks at work and parties. Keeping it casual and trendy is something that I always stress on. OTG is all about being casual but comfortable."

Maya Nelluri, actor of Thimmarusu fame, gives her take on trend. "My favourite wardrobe piece is a wrap dress. I love the flair and chic silhouettes of any dress, but a wrap dress usually fits everyone perfectly. It is extremely comfortable and can be worn on most occasions. Pair it with a denim jacket, sneakers and a beautiful set of earrings and bracelet, and you will make heads turn. I love the simplicity of black white and denim colours in particular," she says.

DRAW ME HAPPY

MISHA RAJANI

THE art of makeup doesn't have to stop at just one person's imagination, but can be drawn from others' too. Content creators and makeup artists are turning to their followers for ideas when it comes to makeup. They've been (literally) drawing inspiration from them.

A social media trend called, 'Draw My Makeup Challenge', went viral recently, where content creators asked their followers to draw a makeup look that they'd like for them to recreate. These creators received ideas such as different coloured wing eyeliner, goth makeup and even flowers and rainbow.

Shania Ann Modi, (@makeupxshann), makeup artist, explains, "The creator must post a picture of their preferred body part on social media and ask their followers to take a screenshot, use a drawing app and design their ideas onto it. Once done, they can send it back to the creator, who will recreate it using the exact colours, techniques and styles used in the sketch. The main point of the challenge is to recreate the same design that has been suggested."

Sanjula Banerjee (@cophixbeauty), content creator who has tried out the trend, says this is also a way of knowing preferences. We assume what our followers want to see from us, but this challenge has opened a way for content creators to interact and engage with their followers. Moreover, this lets the audience feel valued as their designs or ideas are brought to life," she says.

Banerjee goes on to add that this creative technique is beneficial for audience engagement as followers get to choose what they see, what they can ask for and list out all minute details. "It is important to remember that content creators wouldn't exist if it wasn't for their followers. Therefore, it is important to value their designs and follow accordingly."

She suggests that if the creator has many designs on hand, they can pass it on to fellow creators, thus valuing the audience's time.

THE Namma Metro station I commute to work from every day is on the outskirts of the city, and isn't crowded till it reaches the central stops. I usually prefer sitting in the women's coach and get teased by friends for grabbing the same single seater every day. "You have Sheldon complex," they tell me and I agree. It is my 'me-time' wherein I listen to my favourite podcasts, read or take a nap.

Sometimes, men enter women's section without knowing it is reserved. I make it a point to politely let them know and they leave. Last week, I saw a man getting in and sitting next to a young girl. There were around six people in our coach and the whole train had about 40 people at that point. Alarm bells went off in my brain as soon as this man fished out his smartphone and started filming the women's section. Since he was sitting diagonally opposite, I could clearly see that he was recording the women on the couch, including the girl next to him. He also kept staring at them.

Just then, I called him out and pointed out the 'Women Only' sign, asking him to leave. He muttered something under his breath but did not budge. In the next stop, three men boarded our coach and I told them it was women's section. They left immediately. This man did not. I started feeling uncomfortable. As more women started coming in, he plugged in his earphones and pretended fall asleep. Usually, we have women home guards or cops coming in, inspecting if passengers are following safety norms. Unfortunately, no one came in that day.

Few more stations later, there were women carrying heavy luggage standing next to him. He was the only man in the coach. I was annoyed because no other woman, despite in need of that space reserved by authorities especially for them, uttered a single word. This man, well aware of my angry stare fixed at him, continued to feign innocence.

This goes a long way. I have frequently seen this behaviour among women. Mostly, it is about avoiding public confrontation. Many of us are conditioned to keep mum in the face of such brazen behaviour. Many of us have never asked for our space, even when we rightfully deserve it. We like to be invisible. I wondered for how long will we keep leaning on some man with a conscience or saviour complex to barge in and fight our fights, make our speeches or walk our miles.

We reached the Majestic station. As I alighted, I went to a guard on the platform, pointed the man to her and told her about his behaviour. She assured me she will take care of it and very loudly asked him to move to the other part of the train. While stepping on to the escalator, I saw him get up and leave. I kept grinning under my mask.

5 ways in which the pandemic has shaped new music trends

OVER the last year and a half, the music industry has seen dramatic changes (much like every other sphere of life). We've seen new trends, disruptions, new opportunities, and losses - all at the same time. Here are five major developments in the world of music:

■ Long-distance collaborations are normal now: With everyone safely at home, the world has become bigger and smaller - all at once. Anything outside the home was too unsafe for travel, so musicians have been collaborating across global locations. While long-distance collaborations have existed for years now, most artistes weren't open to the idea - thinking that nothing could replace in-person collaborations. Today, everyone is experimenting with video conferencing, which has opened up new avenues for international performances.

■ People have been spending more time learning music: Online music education has grown rapidly since the pandemic hit, with many new players entering the fray. The last year has seen a large number of adults returning to learn music for themselves, as a means of finding joy, and as a result music educators like us have created courses that speak directly to this audience. Classes in a variety of formats from live-online to asynchronous and hybrid have found popularity around the world. And as live in-person classes slowly start again, extra online material and a hybrid way of learning is definitely here to stay.

■ Live performances look different: As recently as two years ago, no one would've even imagined the idea of an online concert. However, when halls and stadia shut down overnight, artistes needed new ways to create meaningful live experiences online. It was not easy - with lag, it was hard for even two artistes to play together from different locations. However, thanks to some ingenious planning and routing of sound, musicians have found fun ways to work together online. Today, online concerts are much more advanced - with quality production, excellent audio and video, and ways for artistes to speak directly to their fans.

■ Social media and streaming are more important than ever before: While it has always been crucial for artistes to use social media and streaming platforms to stay connected and share their work, the last year has made it the only way to engage. The value of social media will only grow over time, and artistes have been spending time experimenting with new features and virtual tools.

■ Everyone is building new skills at home: Pre-pandemic, a musician could visit a nearby studio to record a track or shoot a music video. But with lockdowns in place, it became necessary to learn how to record audio, shoot videos, edit music videos, and even build a promotion plan online. This is a good thing, because learning new and complementary skills can only help.

THE QUESTIONS WE ASK

LOVEOLOGY
Mahesh Natarajan

(The author is a counsellor with InnerSight)

IF you are living with the people in your relationship, just notice over the next few days, how many times you ask everyday questions like, "Where are you going?" or, "What are you doing?" or, "What are you watching?" Basic, everyday questions where the object of the inquiry is about some basic, everyday function that anyone would notice happening if they just observed and waited for a minute or two. If observing yourself is tough, then observe how often you are asked such questions.

It might feel like living with a two-year-old child. They ask a lot of questions about every single thing that would otherwise feel quite inane. With a kid, we might indulge them a lot, but with adults, we might bristle against it and want to say things like, "What is it with you! Do I have to mark attendance with you every time I even go to get a drink of water? Is this like at school where I have to ask Teacher for permission for every single thing?"

Certainly, if there are too many questions like this, someone is going to get annoyed and that annoyance will make itself heard soon enough. On the other hand, if there are no such questions at all, do you feel relieved and content, or would you feel there is too much silence? Are relationships better when the questions are relevant and specific, or when they just come up every now and then for the most ordinary things in the world?

The real answer is that these questions are not truly questions that require a factual answer at all, but are actually calls to connect with each other. These questions are our way of being around each other, expressing interest and seeking engagement.

Try this: Imagine a loved one is busy with a newspaper and you ask, "What are you reading in the newspaper?" The person might say something horrible like, "If you read the news instead of just watching TV, you might know." or just ignore the question, or just grunt a sarcastic, "The news!" or, "The sports section," or say something like, "An article on what it took for our Olympic gold medalist to get there," or even, "Here, let me read out to you. You would be interested in this as well."

See the difference?

When we put it out like this, it seems obvious that the question may not really require a fact as an answer, but it is a call to connect, to see if there is a moment where a little "We" time can be experienced. The more you engage with the person, the closer you would feel with each other. Of course, you might want just "Me" time and ignore it for the moment or ask if you can just read for a bit by yourself, and that's OK, but if you reply with sarcasm or bite off their head, these calls for connections will stop and relationships wither away.

MARIGOLD TO BE SENT FOR CBFC CERTIFICATION

CE FEATURES

The shooting of Marigold, starring Dignath and directed by Raghavendra M Naik, was recently wrapped up. And it looks like the post-production of the film is going on in full throttle. The makers have now announced that crime thriller is all set for CBFC certification. "We have completed filming, and we are now at the re-recording stage. Soon, the film will be sent to the Censor Board. We are simultaneously working on the film's trailer, which will be out soon," says debutant director Raghavendra, sharing a few new stills from the film.

The film, starring Diganth and directed by Raghavendra M Naik, is currently at the tailend of post-production

The film is bankrolled by director-producer Raghuvardhan, under the banner RV Creations. The dialogues of Marigold are written by Raghu Niduvalli, while Veer Samarth has composed the music. Chandrashekar has been roped in for handling the camera.

The debutant director, who is hoping for a theatrical release, is also not ruling out the option of getting the film out on OTT. "Talks are on with various streaming platforms, and if the Covid situation gets to its peak, we might go for a digital release. Marigold cast also features Yash Shetty, Sampath Mythria, Cockroach Sudhi, Bala Rajwadi, and Vajrang Shetty among others."

Apart from Marigold, Diganth has Gaalipata 2, Huttuhabba Subhashayagalu, Nimma Katheyalli Hannavilla, and Kannada remake of Telugu film Evaru in his kitty.

JENNIFER LAWRENCE IN TALKS FOR A BIOPIC

CE FEATURES

Academy Award-winning actor Jennifer Lawrence is reportedly in talks to star as Sue Mengers in a film based on the life of the popular talent agent. According to reports, filmmaker Paolo Sorrentino, best known for directing This Must Be The Place, The Great Beauty, Rio, I Love You, and The Consequences of Love, is in talks to helm the project.

Mengers is considered a disrupter in the field of talent management, which was once predominantly populated with male agents. Reports also suggest that Lauren Schuker Blum, Rebecca Angelo, and John Logan have scripted the film, while Apple is likely to back the project.

Lawrence, on the other hand, also has the science fiction black comedy, Don't Look Up, directed by Adam McKay and co-starring Leonardo DiCaprio, Rob Morgan, and Jonah Hill. She is also set to star in an untitled film directed by Lila Neugebauer.

Dan Levy to star in and co-write comedy series Standing By

CE FEATURES

Schitt's Creek-fame Dany Levy is all set to star in and co-write an animated comedy series titled Standing By for Hulu. Levy will write alongside writer-director Ally Pankiw, with whom he previously worked on the third season of Schitt's Creek. The two will also executive produce the show.

Standing By is a satirical look into the lives of a group of eternally bound, disgruntled guardian angels. They begin to learn more from the dysfunctional humans they are in charge of protecting, and also from each other. Levy will voice a character called Carey, a newly deceased, cynical spotter to the group who had a lonely, isolated life in New York City..

Manju Pavagada

'I WANT TO ENTERTAIN THE AUDIENCE WITH MY COMIC SENSE'

...says Manju Pavagada, the winner of Bigg Boss Kannada season 8, as he shares his struggle in the industry

A SHARADHAA

MANJU Pavagada emerged as the winner of Bigg Boss Kannada Season 8, which was announced at the finale held on August 8, aired on Colors Kannada. Manju won the popular reality TV show, hosted by Kichcha Sudeep, by taking down 20 other contestants. Manju Pavagada, who took home the trophy and cash prize of ₹ 53 lakhs, is yet to figure out what to do with the money. "I haven't seen so much money in my life. I have only heard about such a huge sum. So, I don't know what to do with it. I always wished to look after my parents well, and I am sure to fulfill it with this money."

> I haven't seen so much money in my life. I have only heard about such a huge sum
> – Manju Pavagada, Bigg Boss winner

Manju got considerable limelight with the comedy TV show Majaa Bharatha, but with Bigg Boss Kannada, he has become a household name in Karnataka. However, his road to success wasn't as easy as it looks. Hailing from Tumkur, Manju was a struggling artiste in Bengaluru. He has no qualms in revealing that he was bad at academics. He failed PUC six consecutive times and has also worked in petrol bunk to get by. Yet, all through his struggle, Manju held his silver screen dream intact.

"Even as I was working at a petrol bunk for a living, I was working towards fulfilling my dream. As a first step, I joined an acting class, where I trained for six months. Secondly, I took up theatre for which I did a one-month workshop at Ninasam theatre, and I got into an amateur theatre group. I attended a lot of auditions and was rejected numerous times before I got my first stint at the Comedy show Majaa Bharatha," says Manju.

The comedy show was the turning point in his life. The skit titled Bachelor propelled him to fame, and people started calling him Lag Manja. "From then there was no looking back for me," says Manju, who was also credited as a writer for various shows.

Talking about his entry into Bigg Boss after being part of Majaa Bharatha for about four years, he says, "I was one among the recognised faces inside the house along with actors like Shubga Poonja, Nidhi Subaiah, and serial actor Vaishnavi, My comic sense made me stand out of the lot and helped me win many hearts. Also, this Bigg Boss season was split into two seasons because of the Covid situation, which helped me as well. I understood how much the viewers love my comedy timing. It boosted me to perform better when I entered the house for the second innings."

Manju Pavagada considers Sudeep to be his huge inspiration, and he is also a die-hard fan of Shivarajkumar. So far, he has done only a bunch of blink-and-you-miss roles in Kannada cinema, and Manju is determined to change that "I have been part of films like Ramarjuna and Brahmachari. I have got an opportunity to work in Shinvanna's upcoming film, Bhajarangi 2," says Manju, who is aiming to become a known face on the silver screen. At the same time, he is grateful to the TV industry. "The small screen has provided me a fantastic platform and helped me to gain recognition," says Manju, who signs off with a statement, "I want to entertain the audience with my good sense of humour."

Chris Estrada's comedy series This Fool in development at Hulu

CE FEATURES

HULU has announced that a comedy series titled This Fool is in development. The series is said to be inspired by the life of comedian Chris Estrada.

Estrada, who features as one of the comedians in Comedy Central Up Comedians in 2019, will star in and write the show. The story revolves around Julio Lopez (Estrada), whose kind-hearted temperament leads him to go out of his way to help those he encounters. Based on the life of Estrada, the half-hour comedy will explore Lopez's work at a gang-rehabilitation non-profit, and his mission to get past his codependency problems with his family while he navigates his middle-class life in Los Angeles.

This is the latest addition to Hulu's list of original scripted comedies like Only Murders in the Building, How I Met Your Father, and Life & Beth.

Estrada will executive produce the series along with Corporate Pat Bishop, Jake Weisman and Matt Ingebretson, with Fred Armisen and Jonathan Groff also executive producing

Nobody to hit Indian screens on August 13

CE FEATURES

UNIVERSAL Pictures has announced that Bob Odenkirk's much-awaited action-thriller Nobody will hit theatres in India this week on Friday.

Written by John Wick writer Derek Kolstad, Nobody is directed by Ilya Naishuller. It revolves around a bystander named Hutch Mansell (Odenkirk), who when two thieves break into his suburban home one night, declines to defend himself or his family, hoping to prevent serious violence.

NIMRAT Kaur on Sunday announced that she has wrapped filming for the upcoming Hindi film, Dasvi. The Airlift-actor took to Instagram to mark the "joyous culmination" of the journey.

While sharing a couple of pictures from the shooting spot, she wrote, "There are unforgettable roles in an actor's life and there are unexplored places you visit that come with it. Rarely do the twain meet. Bimla Devi Choudhary is one such gift who'll forever be etched in my heart as the happiest, most thrilling and fun place I got to explore through a part entrusted so encouragingly and lovingly to me."

She added, "I can't believe a journey that began 10 months ago for me finally came to its joyous culmination through some of the most surreal times of all our lives. Nothing but the utmost gratitude to all the stolid pillars of Team Dasvi! See you at the movies."

Dasvi is reportedly a political comedy directed by Tushar Jalota. The film also stars Abishek Bachchan and Yami Gautam in the lead roles. Produced by Maddock Films in association with Jio Studios, the makers are expected to announce the release date shortly.

Kayadu Lohar to play the female lead in GVM-Simbu's Vendhu Thanindhathu Kaadu?

CE FEATURES

KANNADA actor Kayadhu Lohar has been widely speculated to play the female lead in Gautham Menon's upcoming film Vendhu Thanindhathu Kaadu, starring Silambarasan TR. The female actor is known for starring in the Kannada film Mugilpete and Malayalam period film Pathonpatham Noottandu.

The film went on the floors last Friday in Thiruchendur. The story for this action film is written by Jeyamohan. The film will be different from Gautham Menon's previous films and is said to be inspired by the author's story Agni Konjondru Kanden.

Vendhu Thandhathu Kaadu, which has music by AR Rahman, is produced by Ishari Ganesh under his banner Vels Films International. Simbu has apparently lost 15 kilos for this role.

An official confirmation is awaited from the production side about the female lead and the rest of the cast. Pictures from the first day of the shoot revealed that Radikaa Sarathkumar is a part of the film.
